Pleadings in Suits brought against the Committee on Volunteering.

Case of John McHugh.

Complaint.

SUPREME COURT—KINGS COUNTY.

JOHN MCHUGH, by his Attorney in fact, MARY MCHUGH, against ORISON BLUNT, Chairman of the New York County Volunteer Committee.

The complaint of the plaintiff respectfully shows to this Court that the said Orison Blunt, in his official capacity as chairman of said committee, was duly authorized by the Board of Supervisors of the County of New York, in the month of November, 1863, to pay to each of the veterans of the volunteers of the State of New York in the service of the United States, re-enlisting in said service and credited as part of the quota of the said County of New York under the late calls of the President of the United States in 1863 for three hundred thousand and two hundred thousand men, the sum of three hundred dollars; that the said John McHugh was, on the 28th day of January, 1864, a veteran private, of Captain Charles Morrison's Company (B) Fourth Regiment Heavy Artillery, New York Volunteers; that on the 28th day of December, 1863, at Fort Ethan Allen, Virginia, by reason of his re-enlistment as a veteran, he was discharged, with a furlough for thirty days; that he resides in the City of Brooklyn, and returned from Virginia to this place, where he remained to within a day or two of the expiration of his said furlough, so that he was compelled to return to his said Company before he could ascertain from the muster-in officer to which County he was credited, and without having received his bounty aforesaid; that afterward information from Captain W. Van Horn, the muster-in officer, was received, stating that plaintiff was credited to the County of New York as one of its quota; that thereupon the said John McHugh, being engaged with his Company in actual service, and unable for that reason to get another furlough or to make personal application to the defendant for his bounty, made and executed a power of attorney to his wife, Mary McHugh, on the 20th day of April, 1864, in the presence of William H. Burt, Lieutenant commanding said Company B, and acknowledged before the Adjutant of said regiment on the same day (20th April), authorizing her to receive for him said bounty of three hundred dollars.

That on or about the 5th day of May, 1864, Captain

Charles Morrison, of said city, commanding said Company, made an affidavit as to the identity of said John McHugh and Mary his wife and the Adjutant of his regiment; that the funds for the payment of said bounties having been furnished to said Blunt by the Board of Supervisors aforesaid; that in pursuance of said power of attorney given as aforesaid, with that and all of the said papers before referred to, on or about the 7th day of May, 1864, plaintiff's said wife called on the said Orison Blunt, at his office for the payment of said bounties, at the corner of Chambers street and Broadway, in the City of New York, and there exhibited all of said papers before referred to to him, and demanded of him the bounty due and coming to her said husband, amounting to three hundred dollars; that thereupon the said defendant, in an insulting and contemptuous manner refused to pay the same; wherefore, said defendant became indebted to the said plaintiff in the said sum of three hundred dollars, for which sum he demands judgment against said defendant, besides the costs and expenses of this action.

Plaintiff's Attorney.

C. J. Answer.

SUPREME COURT—KINGS COUNTY.

JOHN MCHUGH, by his Attorney in fact, MARY MCHUGH, against ORISON BLUNT, Chairman of the New York County Volunteer Committee.

The answer of the defendant to the complaint herein respectfully shows to the Court:

First—That he denies that in his official capacity as chairman of the New York County Volunteer Committee, or otherwise, this defendant was duly authorized by the Board of Supervisors of the County of New York, in the month of November, 1863, or at any time whatever, to pay to each of the veterans of the volunteers of the State of New York in the service of the United States, or otherwise re-enlisting in said service, or credited as part of the quota of said County of New York under the calls of the President of the United States in the year 1863 for three hundred thousand and two hundred thousand men, or under either calls referred to in said complaint, the sum of three hundred dollars, as alleged in the said complaint, or any sum whatever; and this defendant denies each and every allegation in respect thereto in the said complaint contained.

Second—And this defendant, further answering, avers that he has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether the John McHugh, the plaintiff in the said complaint mentioned, was at the time therein mentioned, or at any time whatever, a veteran private in the company or regiment in said complaint specified, or in any company or regiment whatever; and he therefore denies the allegation in respect thereto in the said complaint contained.

Third—This defendant, further answering, avers that he has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in the said complaint contained, commencing with the words "that on the 28th day of December, 1863, at Fort Ethan Allen," between the 3d and 4th folios of the said complaint, and ending with the words "and the Adjutant of the said Regiment," between the 7th and 8th folios of the said complaint; and this defendant therefore denies the said allegation and all the facts therein stated and set forth.

Fourth—This defendant denies that the funds for the payment of the bounties referred to in the said complaint have been furnished to this defendant by the said Board of Supervisors; and he further denies that at the time alleged in the said complaint, or at any time whatever, this defendant had received from the said Board of Supervisors or otherwise any funds or sum to pay any bounty to the plaintiff in this action, or to any one on his behalf.

Fifth—And this defendant further avers that he has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegation in the said complaint contained commencing with the words "that in pursuance of said power," between the 8th and 9th folios thereof, and ending with the words "refused to pay the same," between the 9th and 10th folios thereof, and therefore he denies the said allegations and every part thereof. That this defendant, at the time referred to in said allegation, was obliged to converse with large numbers of persons daily in the discharge of his duties as chairman of the County Volunteer Committee of the County of New York, and cannot at this distance of time remember whether he ever had any conversation with the wife of the plaintiff.

Sixth—This defendant denies that he is indebted to the plaintiff in the sum mentioned in the complaint, or in any sum whatever, or that for or by reason of anything in the said complaint mentioned he ever became indebted to the said plaintiff in any sum whatever.

Seventh—And for a further and separate defense to the cause of action stated in the complaint, this defendant further shows that on the 31st day of October, 1863, the Mayor and Comptroller of the City of New York, and Elijah F. Purdy, this defendant, William M. Tweed, and William R. Stewart, who then were members of the Board of Supervisors of the County of New York, were designated and appointed by the said Board a committee to procure the enlistment of substitutes for drafted men under the provisions of an ordinance passed on said day by said Board of Supervisors, a copy of which said ordinance is hereto annexed, marked "A," and which this defendant prays may be taken as a part of this his answer.

That this defendant was subsequently appointed chairman of the said committee by said committee.

That the only power or authority possessed by this defendant in relation to the procuring of substitutes aforesaid or volunteers for said County of New York, at the time when the said plaintiff is alleged to have re-enlisted and to have become entitled to receive a bounty from the County of New York, was derived from the ordinance aforesaid, and the said defendant possessed no other power nor had he received any other authority from the said Board in relation to the payment of bounties to substitutes or volunteers aforesaid.

And this defendant avers, on information and belief, that the said plaintiff never complied with the provisions of the second section of the said ordinance, and never became entitled to receive any bounty from the County of

New York under the same, nor ever furnished to the Comptroller of the City and County of New York satisfactory evidence of his having been enlisted, or that he had been duly accepted or mustered into the service of the United States for three years or the war.

And defendant further alleges, on his information and belief, that the name of the said plaintiff does not appear upon the muster-in rolls for the County of New York, credited to said County as one of its quota under the call by the President of the United States for men referred to in the complaint and in the ordinance aforesaid.

Eighth—And for a further and separate defense to the cause of action stated in the complaint, this defendant further shows that the County Volunteer Committee hereinbefore referred to under the ordinance aforesaid, made a rule or regulation, of which public notice was duly given, a copy of which said notice is hereto annexed, marked "B," and which this defendant prays may be taken as a part of this his answer.

And this defendant avers, upon his information and belief, that said plaintiff never complied with the said rule or regulation of the said committee, in this: that he never appeared before the said committee in person with the papers therein referred to, nor either nor any of them. And defendant also avers, upon his information and belief, that said papers were never presented to the said committee by any person on behalf of said plaintiff.

And defendant further alleges that the name of the said plaintiff does not appear upon any of the muster-in rolls in the possession of the said committee, as credited to the quota of the County of New York under the calls aforesaid or either of them; and he avers that the said plaintiff has never become entitled to receive any bounty under the ordinance aforesaid from the said County of New York.

Wherefore, this defendant prays that the complaint herein may be dismissed with costs.

A. R. LAWRENCE, Jr.,
Attorney for Defendant,
61 William street, New York City.

City and County of New York, ss:

Orison Blunt, of said City, being duly sworn, deposes and says, that he is the defendant above-named; that he has heard read the foregoing answer, and knows the contents thereof, and that the same is true to his own knowledge, except as to the matters which are therein stated to be on his information and belief, and as to those matters he believes it to be true.

ORISON BLUNT.

Sworn to before me, this 29th day of September, 1864.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of New York do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. In order to prevent the withdrawal from the County of any considerable number of active, able-bodied citizens, whose presence and services are deemed necessary for the maintenance of public order and the security of its inhabitants, and who may hereafter be drafted to serve as soldiers in the armies of the Union, and for the purpose of expediting the raising of the additional number of men recently called for by the President of the United States, the Comptroller is hereby authorized and directed to pay, as hereinafter provided, such sum and sums of money as may be necessary to obtain acceptable substitutes for such service, not exceeding three hundred dollars for any one substitute, who shall be credited and allowed on account of the quota of men required to be furnished by this County under any future draft ordered by the President of the United States.

Sec. 2. The moneys authorized by the preceding section to be paid for substitutes shall be paid to such substitutes respectively, or their duly authorized agents, at the office of the Comptroller, or such other place or places as said Comptroller may designate, immediately on their furnishing him with satisfactory evidence of their having enlisted and been duly accepted and mustered into the military service of the United States for the term of three years or during the war.

Sec. 3. The Mayor and Comptroller of the City of New York and the following-named members of this Board, that is to say, Elijah F. Purdy, Orison Blunt, William M. Tweed, and William R. Stewart, are hereby designated and appointed a committee to procure the enlistment of the substitutes authorized by this ordinance, provided the Government will allow the number of men so procured to be credited and deducted from the quota of this County in any future draft.

Sec. 4. In order that the Comptroller may be enabled to make the payments hereinbefore authorized and the expenses necessarily incurred in the execution of this ordinance, he is hereby authorized to borrow, from time to time, on the faith and credit of the County of New York, a sum not exceeding an aggregate of two million dollars ($2,000,000), which amount is hereby appropriated therefor.

Sec. 5. The money so borrowed shall be deposited in the County treasury by the persons lending the same, and the County Treasurer shall give proper receipts therefor. On presenting such receipts to the Comptroller, the lenders of the money shall be entitled to receive bonds of the County of New York for an equal amount, which shall be designated and known as "Soldiers' Substitute Bounty Fund Bonds," and be prepared and signed by the Comptroller, countersigned by the Mayor, and sealed with the common seal of this Board, attested by the Clerk.

Sec. 6. The said bonds shall bear interest at such rate as may be agreed upon, not exceeding six per cent. per annum, and the principal thereof shall be redeemable on or before the 1st day of June, 1864. The faith of the County of New York and of the Board of Supervisors of said County is hereby solemnly pledged for the payment and redemption of said bonds and the interest thereon, according to their tenor.

Sec. 7. The Comptroller is hereby further authorized to cause a transfer to be made to the credit of the Soldiers' Substitute Bounty Fund, hereby created, of the amount remaining unexpended after all expenses are paid and the accounts are fully closed, of the moneys appropriated and borrowed in pursuance of the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the procurement of substitutes for certain citizens of the City and County of New York who have been or may hereafter be drafted to serve in the army of the Union during the existing war, and for other purposes," passed August 28, 1863, and the amount so transferred may be used and paid for the procurement of substitutes as authorized and provided by this ordinance.

Case of James Morgan.

Summons.

SUPREME COURT—KINGS COUNTY.

JAMES MORGAN, Plaintiff, against ORISON BLUNT, Defendant.	Summons.

U. S. Rev. Stamp, 50 cents. Aug. 28, '65 T. C. B.

To the defendant above named—

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint in this action, of which a copy is herewith served upon you, and to serve a copy of your answer to the said complaint on the subscriber, at his office, No. 9 Court street, City of Brooklyn, within twenty days after the service hereof, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer the complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated August 28, 1865.

THOMAS C. BOWEN,
Plaintiff's Attorney,
9 Court street, Brooklyn.

Complaint.

SUPREME COURT—KINGS COUNTY.

JAMES MORGAN

against

ORISON BLUNT.

The complaint of the above-named plaintiff respectfully shows to this Court—

That at the City and County of New York, on or about the 16th day of August, 1864, and during the period of the alleged transactions hereinafter mentioned, the above-named defendant was chairman of the New York County Committee on Volunteering, and also recruiting officer for the enlistment and shipping of recruits in the navy, for the purpose of filling the quotas in the several Congressional Districts in the City and County of New York, under the different calls of the President of the United States.

That at the City and County of New York, on the 16th day of August, 1864, the plaintiff applied to the defendant, stating that he desired to enlist in the United States navy as a volunteer, and not otherwise; and it was then and there agreed to and between the said plaintiff and the defendant that he, the said plaintiff, was to ship as a volunteer for the period of one year from the date of said enlistment; and it was further agreed that he, said plaintiff, should receive as consideration for said enlisting the sum of two hundred and seventy-five dollars as a volunteer bounty from the City and County of New York when he enlisted, and the further sum of one hundred dollars bounty from the United States Government when he was delivered on the United States receiving-ship, making a sum total of three hundred and seventy-five dollars.

That said plaintiff, relying on said representations and agreement, was thereby induced to enlist, and was placed on the United States receiving-ship Vermont, lying at the Brooklyn Navy-yard, at which time and place he was paid the sum of two hundred and seventy dollars by said defendant, or his agent, and was then informed that he would receive the further sum of one hundred dollars from the Paymaster of the receiving-ship.

That plaintiff has repeatedly demanded of the said Paymaster the said sum of one hundred dollars, but has been informed that he is not entitled to the said Government bounty for the reason that he was enlisted as a substitute.

That the said defendant, at the time of said agreement to enlist as aforesaid, offered and did try to induce the said plaintiff to enlist in the naval service as aforesaid as a substitute, and for which the plaintiff could have obtained for so enlisting as a substitute the sum of five hundred dollars, but that said plaintiff positively refused and declined to enlist as a substitute.

That on the said 16th day of August, 1864, at the said City and County of New York, the said defendant, with intent to deceive and defraud the plaintiff, did enlist said plaintiff in the United States navy as a substitute, at the same time falsely and fraudulently representing that he had shipped in the navy as a volunteer.

That said plaintiff, at the time of said enlistment, signed shipping articles purporting to be volunteer enlistment papers, which were not read or explained to him before signing, and plaintiff is unable to state what they contained.

That plaintiff had shipped as a volunteer, and had no intention and did not ship as a substitute.

That said plaintiff is informed and alleges the fact to be that said defendant, contrary to the agreement aforesaid made and contrary to the representations aforesaid, did, on or about the 16th day of August, 1864, with intent to deceive and defraud this plaintiff, and against his will and unknown to him, make out and alter said enlistment papers, and did then sell said papers to one Frederick P.

Elliott, of the City, County and State of New York, for a large sum, to wit, about seven hundred dollars, thereby placing said plaintiff in the navy as a substitute for said Elliott.

That said representations were false and untrue, and were made expressly for the purpose of defrauding this plaintiff, as the defendant well knew at the time.

That by reason of the promises and the false representations aforesaid made, this plaintiff was misled to his damage in the sum of seven hundred dollars ($700), for which sum, less the sum of two hundred and seventy dollars ($270) received at the time of enlisting, the plaintiff demands judgment against the said defendant, besides the costs and disbursements of this action.

Answer.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT—COUNTY OF KINGS.

JAMES MORGAN
agst.
ORISON BLUNT.

The answer of the defendant to the complaint herein respectfully shows to the Court:

First—That he admits that at the times mentioned in the complaint he was chairman of the County Volunteer Committee of the County of New York, and he alleges that at said time the said committee was intrusted with the power and duty of procuring volunteers for the army and navy of the United States, to fill the quota assigned to the said County and the various Congressional Districts thereof; and that this defendant, as such chairman, had, at or before said period, received from one Frederick B. Elliott the sum of two hundred and seventy dollars, for the purpose of procuring a substitute who would enlist in his behalf in the navy of the United States for the term of one year, and then held the same for that purpose.

But this defendant denies that he was a recruiting officer for the enlisting or shipping of recruits, as in the said complaint mentioned.

Second—This defendant denies that he ever made the false or fraudulent representations to the plaintiff alleged in the complaint, or any false or fraudulent representations or statements whatever.

Third—This defendant denies that he ever made the agreement with the said plaintiff which is alleged in the complaint, or that it was ever agreed between the said plaintiff and defendant that the said plaintiff should ship as a volunteer in the navy of the United States for the period mentioned in the said complaint, or otherwise, or that it was agreed between them that the said plaintiff should ship as such volunteer in any manner whatever, or that the said plaintiff should receive, in consideration of enlisting as such volunteer, the sum mentioned in the said complaint, or any sum whatever; or that the said plaintiff, relying on any such representations, statements, or agreements as are mentioned in the complaint, was placed upon the receiving-ship Vermont, mentioned in the complaint, or that any such information was communicated by the defendant to the plaintiff on being received on said ship, as is mentioned in said complaint.

And he also denies that any person on board who received the said plaintiff was the agent of this defendant.

And he denies, upon information and belief, that any such information was communicated or any such statement was made to the said plaintiff upon his being received upon said ship, as is stated and alleged in said complaint, or otherwise.

Fourth—This defendant also denies that, with the intent in the complaint mentioned, or otherwise, he enlisted the said plaintiff in the United States navy as a substitute, or that he falsely or fraudulently represented that the said plaintiff had enlisted as volunteer; and he further denies that the said plaintiff ever declined to enlist as a substitute, or that this defendant enlisted said plaintiff in any manner whatever.

Fifth—This defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether the said plaintiff made the demand on Paymaster mentioned in the complaint for the sum therein mentioned, or for any sum whatever.

Sixth—This defendant denies that he is indebted to the plaintiff in the sum mentioned in the complaint, or in any sum whatever; and he further alleges that he has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether the plaintiff could have obtained the sum mentioned in the complaint as a substitute, but he avers that he could not have obtained that sum from the County of New York.

Seventh—This defendant denies that, with the intent mentioned in the complaint, or otherwise, he made out or altered the enlistment papers of the plaintiff, as in the complaint mentioned or otherwise, or with such intent or otherwise did sell the same to Frederick B. Elliot, therein mentioned, for the sum therein mentioned, or any sum whatever, or had anything whatever to do with said papers.

Eighth—And this defendant denies each and every other allegation in said complaint contained not heretofore admitted or denied, except as hereinafter stated.

Ninth—And this defendant, further answering, shows to the Court that at or about the time in said complaint mentioned the said plaintiff applied to the said defendant, who was then chairman of the County Volunteer Committee, as before stated, for the purpose of being enlisted into the naval service of the United States as a substitute for persons liable to be drafted, as aforesaid; that it was then and there distinctly and expressly stated by the said plaintiff that he was an alien, and was not liable to such draft; that the said plaintiff was informed that he could and would be received as a substitute into the navy of the United States, and that as such substitute he would be entitled on enlisting for one year to receive the sum of two hundred and seventy dollars, which included hand-money, bounty, and all allowances, and that the same would be paid to him upon his having passed the final examination by the Surgeon of the United States Government appointed for that purpose, and on being received on board the United States receiving-ship Vermont, then lying at the Navy-yard in Brooklyn.

That the said plaintiff then and there stated that he was satisfied to enlist as such substitute for the period of one year, upon the terms aforesaid; and that upon the said plaintiff being passed by the said Surgeon and received on the said receiving-ship, the sum of two hundred and seventy dollars was duly paid to him, and he was enlisted in said navy as a substitute for one Frederick B. Elliott, who had previously deposited with this defendant, as such chairman as aforesaid, the sum of two hundred and seventy dollars for the purpose of procuring a substitute and obtaining the bounty thereof.

And this defendant further shows that the said sum of two hundred and seventy dollars was all the bounty and hand-money then allowed and paid by the said committee for substitutes, and that said payment was made exclusively for and on behalf of said Elliott, and was the money deposited by him in the hands of this defendant for that purpose as aforesaid; and defendant further says that at that time neither the County of New York nor the United States Government were paying any money or bounty whatever to persons enlisting as substitutes in the navy for one year, as aforesaid.

That it is utterly false and untrue that any fraud or deceit was practiced by this defendant, or by any of the officers concerned in receiving or in mustering the said plaintiff into the service of the United States.

And he alleges on information and belief that the said plaintiff signed the shipping and enlistment papers or articles on his being so enlisted into the service of the United States, with a full and distinct knowledge of their contents, and fully understood their purport and contents, and then and there made an affidavit that he was an alien, and not liable to draft, in order that he might be accepted as such substitute as aforesaid.

That the same were prepared for and presented to him by the proper United States officers, and not by this defendant.

That it is also false and untrue that this defendant altered the said enlistment papers of the said plaintiff, or that he sold the same to the said Elliott for the sum of seven hundred dollars, or otherwise.

That the said plaintiff was duly received as a substitute for said Elliott in the regular course of business at said County Volunteer Committee's office, and that the plaintiff received all the money paid by said Elliott to this defendant as chairman of the said committee.

That all allegations and statements in the said complaint as to any representations having been made to the plaintiff by this defendant of a different character than as above stated, are untrue.

That the above is the transaction mentioned and referred to in the said complaint.

Tenth—This defendant denies that through or by reason of any act or acts of this defendant, or of any one in his employ, or that through or by reason of any statement or statements, representation or representations of this defendant, or of any one in his employ, the plaintiff has sustained damage in the sum mentioned in the complaint, or in any sum whatever.

Wherefore, this defendant prays that the complaint herein may be dismissed with costs.

HENRY WHITTAKER, JR.,
Plaintiff's Attorney.

SUPREME COURT—COUNTY OF KINGS.

JOHN Z. HARTT
against
ORISON BLUNT.

The plaintiff complains of the defendant as follows:

First—That in and during the month of February, 1865, the defendant was the chairman of the County Committee on Volunteering of the Board of Supervisors of the County of New York, and was the disbursing officer of such committee, and intrusted with the making of the payments hereinafter set forth.

Second—That in and during the said month of February, 1865, the said committee caused to be printed and published in divers newspapers published in the City and County of New York, and to be circulated and given out to the public, an advertisement, of which a copy is hereto annexed, marked "Schedule A;" and that the said committee also caused to be printed and distributed to the several mustering officers of the United States in the said City and County forms of certificates, of which a copy is hereunto annexed, marked "Schedule B," to be signed by said mustering officers, upon every enlistment of a recruit to the credit of the City and County of New York made by them, respectively, for the purpose of proving to said committee who was the person who presented such recruit and was entitled to the premium or hand-money for so doing, under and in pursuance of such resolution and advertisement of said committee hereinbefore set forth.

Third—That on or about the sixteenth day of February, 1865, the plaintiff presented to one George W. Doty, then a mustering officer of the United States in said City and County, one P. W. Stapleton, a recruit, who was then and there duly examined and accepted by such mustering officer, and enlisted into the naval service of the United States for the term of three years, to the credit of the City and County of New York, whereby the plaintiff became and was entitled to the sum of one hundred dollars premium or hand-money from said committee, in pursuance of the resolution and advertisement of said committee hereinbefore set forth; and that the said mustering officer thereupon gave to this plaintiff a certificate in the form of Schedule B, hereinbefore set forth, certifying that this plaintiff had presented said P. W. Stapleton, an accepted landsman recruit, who had been that day enlisted into the naval service of the United States; and that he, said plaintiff, was entitled to the said premium of one hundred dollars, as aforesaid. That on or about the seventeenth day of February, 1865, the plaintiff presented himself and the said recruit at the office of said committee, in the City of New York, for the purpose of obtaining payment to the plaintiff and said recruit, respectively, of the bounty and hand-money severally due to them under and in pursuance of said resolution and advertisement of such committee, as aforesaid. That the plaintiff was thereupon required by said committee to deliver up the certificate of said mustering officer hereinbefore set forth, and to indorse his signature upon the same, and that the plaintiff did thereupon so indorse and deliver up said certificate to such committee. That the defendant thereupon, as such disbursing officer of such committee, as aforesaid, drew and received from said committee the said premium or hand-money of one hundred dollars for the use of and to be handed to this plaintiff; and that the name of this plaintiff was thereupon entered on the books of said committee as having received the same, but that the defendant, though duly thereunto requested, thereafter refused to pay the same to this plaintiff, and wrongfully and unlawfully detained and converted the same.

Fourth—That on or about the said sixteenth day of February, 1865, the plaintiff presented to said George W. Doty, then a mustering officer of the United States in said City and County, as aforesaid, one John Shea, another recruit, who was then and there also duly examined and accepted by such mustering officer, and enlisted into the naval service of the United States for the term of three years, to the credit of the City and County of New York, whereby the plaintiff became and was entitled to the further sum of one hundred dollars premium or hand-money from said committee, in pursuance of the resolution and advertisement of said committee, hereinbefore set forth, and that the said mustering officer thereupon gave to this plaintiff a certain other certificate, in the form of Schedule B, hereinbefore set forth, certifying that this plaintiff had presented said John Shea, an accepted landsman recruit, who had been that day enlisted into the naval service of the United States, and that the said plaintiff was entitled to the said premium of one hundred dollars, as aforesaid.

That on or about the seventeenth day of February, 1865, the plaintiff presented himself and the said recruit at the office of said committee, in the City of New York, for the purpose of obtaining payment to the plaintiff and said recruit, respectively, of the bounty and hand-money severally due to them, under and in pursuance of said resolution and advertisement of such committee as aforesaid. That the plaintiff was thereupon required by said committee to deliver up the certificate of said mustering officer, hereinbefore set forth, and to indorse his signature upon the same, and that the plaintiff did thereupon so indorse and deliver up said certificate to such committee. That the defendant thereupon (as such disbursing officer of such committee as aforesaid) drew and received from said committee the said premium or hand-money of one hundred dollars, for the use of and to be handed to this plaintiff, and that the name of this plaintiff was thereupon entered on the books of said committee as having received the same, but that the defendant, though duly thereunto requested, thereafter refused to pay the same to this plaintiff, and wrongfully and unlawfully detained and converted the same.

Wherefore, the plaintiff demands judgment against the defendant for the sum of two hundred dollars, with interest thereon, from the seventeenth day of February, 1865, besides the costs of this action.

Answer.

SUPREME COURT.

JOHN Z. HARTT
agst.
ORISON BLUNT.

The answer of the defendant to the complaint herein respectfully shows to the Court:

First—This defendant admits that at the times in the complaint mentioned he was the chairman of the County Committee on Volunteering of the Board of Supervisors of the County of New York, but he denies that he was intrusted with the making of payments in the said complaint set forth, and on the contrary thereof, he avers that under the resolution or ordinance of the said Board of Supervisors appointing the said committee and defining their powers and duties, the duty of raising and paying all sums of money to be paid by the County of New York to obtain enlistments in the army and navy of the United States, on behalf of said County, was intrusted to the Comptroller of said City and County of New York, and not to said committee, or to this defendant as the chairman thereof, or otherwise.

Second—This defendant admits that during the month of February, 1865, the said committee printed and published the advertisement marked "A," annexed to said complaint; and he also admits that the said committee printed and distributed to the several mustering officers of the United States in said City and County forms of the certificate marked "B," annexed to said complaint, to be signed by said mustering officers, for the purposes therein mentioned; but this defendant expressly avers that the said certificates were not intended to be and were not conclusive upon said committee, but were accepted by said committee as prima facie evidence only of the facts therein contained; and that the said committee, prior to the time in said complaint mentioned, had established a rule, which was conspicuously posted in the rooms occupied by them, that in all cases of dispute the recruit should decide who was entitled to the hand-money given by the County for bringing him to enlist, which said rule was well known to said plaintiff at said times, as this defendant is informed and believes.

Third—This defendant admits that on the 16th day of February, 1865, one P. W. Stapleton was duly enlisted in the naval service of the United States, to the credit of the County of New York, by one John W. Doty, then one of said mustering officers; but he denies that he was presented to said Doty by said plaintiff, as mentioned in said complaint, or otherwise, or that the plaintiff became or was entitled to the sum of one hundred dollars hand-money, or to any other sum, as mentioned in the complaint, or otherwise.

This defendant denies that the plaintiff received from said mustering officer the certificate in said complaint mentioned, or any other certificate mentioned whatever; but he admits that said plaintiff presented himself before said committee, with said recruit, and claimed the payment to him of the hand-money paid by the County to the person bringing any recruit; but this defendant further says that upon the said plaintiff so presenting himself and claiming said hand-money, the said recruit denied that the said plaintiff was entitled thereto, and denied that he had brought him to enlist, and that he had ever seen said plaintiff before he went to the place of enlistment.

That, in accordance with the regular rule adopted by said committee, the case was investigated; and after such investigation, the said committee accepted the statement of the recruit as conclusive, under the rule established by them, and ignored the said claim of said plaintiff.

That the said plaintiff, on making his claim for such hand-money, presented to said committee a certificate indorsed by him, purporting to be in the form required by them; but this defendant avers that the said certificate was not signed by any mustering officer of the United States, and was of no validity whatever.

This defendant denies that the name of the plaintiff was entered on the book kept by the said committee as having received the said amount of hand-money; but on the contrary thereof, he avers that the name of said Stapleton was entered on said book as having received the same, and that the said Stapleton also indorsed the said alleged certificate as an additional voucher, and the name of the plaintiff was subsequently erased therefrom.

Fourth—This defendant denies that, as disbursing officer of said committee, or otherwise, he drew or received the said sum of one hundred dollars, or any other sum for the use of the plaintiff, or that he wrongfully or unlawfully detained or converted the same; and on the contrary thereof, he avers that the said sum of one hundred dollars hand-money was in the possession of A. S. Cady, chief clerk of the County Bureau, who was at the time mentioned in the complaint detailed by said Comptroller as his clerk and representative at the rooms of said committee; and that the said sum of money was paid by said Cady, on behalf of said Comptroller, to said P. W. Stapleton personally, upon the committee being satisfied that the plaintiff had no claim thereto, under the rules adopted by said committee, as aforesaid.

Fifth—This defendant admits that on the 16th day of January, 1865, one John Shea was duly enlisted into the naval service of the United States, to the credit of the County of New York, by George W. Doty, a mustering officer of the United States; but he denies that he was presented to the said United States mustering officer by said plaintiff, as mentioned in said complaint, or otherwise, or that the plaintiff became or was entitled to the sum of one hundred dollars hand-money, or to any other sum, as mentioned in the complaint, or otherwise.

This defendant denies that the plaintiff received from said mustering officer the certificate in said complaint mentioned, or any other certificate whatever; but he admits that said plaintiff presented himself before said committee with said recruit, and claimed the payment to him of the hand-money paid by the County to the person bringing any recruit; but this defendant further says that upon the said plaintiff so presenting himself and claiming said hand-money, the said recruit denied that the said plaintiff was entitled thereto, and denied that he had brought him to enlist or that he had ever seen said plaintiff before he went to the place of enlistment.

That, in accordance with the regular rule adopted by said committee, the matter was investigated; and after such investigation, the said committee accepted the statement of the recruit as conclusive, under the rule established by them, and ignored the said claim of the said plaintiff.

That the said plaintiff, on making his claim for such hand-money, presented to said committee a certificate indorsed by him purporting to be in the form required by them; but this defendant avers that the said certificate was not signed by any mustering officer of the United States, and was of no validity whatever.

This defendant denies that the name of said plaintiff was entered on the book kept by said committee in their office as having received the said amount of hand-money; but on the contrary thereof, he avers that the name of said Shea was entered on said book as having received the same, and that the said Shea also indorsed the said alleged certificate as an additional voucher, and the name of the plaintiff was subsequently erased therefrom.

Sixth—This defendant denies that, as disbursing officer of said committee, or otherwise, he drew or received the said sum of one hundred dollars, or any other sum for the use of the plaintiff, or that he wrongfully or unlawfully detained or converted the same; and on the contrary thereof, he avers that the said sum of one hundred dollars hand-money was in the possession of said A. S. Cady, who was at the time mentioned in the complaint detailed as the clerk and representative of said Comptroller at the rooms of said committee, as above mentioned, and that the said sum of money was paid by said Cady, on behalf of said Comptroller, to said John Shea personally, upon the committee being satisfied that the plaintiff had no claim thereto, under the rules adopted by said committee, as aforesaid.

Seventh—And this defendant, further answering, denies each and every allegation in the said complaint contained, except as is hereinbefore expressly admitted or denied.

Wherefore, this defendant demands that the complaint in the above entitled action be dismissed, together with the costs of this action.

APPENDIX U.

Report of the Select Committee of the House of Representatives relative to Reimbursing the Loyal States for Expenditures for the War.

WAR DEBTS OF THE LOYAL STATES.

IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Blaine, from the Select Committee on the War Debts of the Loyal States, made the following report:

The select committee to whom was referred, on the 11th of December last, a bill "to reimburse the loyal States for advances made and debts contracted in support of the war for the preservation of the Union," ask leave to report the same in an amended form, which is herewith submitted.

Immediately after being appointed, the committee resolved to ascertain, in an authentic manner, the amount expended in support of the war by each State, and by the counties, cities, and towns within each State. To this end, a letter of inquiry was addressed to the several Governors, and responses, giving the desired information, have been received from every State except California, Oregon, and Nevada. Answers by mail are scarcely due from those distant States, but the committee have not deemed it important to delay their report in order to hear from them, inasmuch as their slight participation in the war renders it certain that their expenditures could not be sufficiently large to have an appreciable influence upon the measure which the committee ask leave to propose.

The following table will show the amounts returned by the several States, as expended directly by the States, or by the municipal corporations within the States. The sum total reaches the enormous amount of four hundred and sixty-seven million nine hundred and fifty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-four dollars ($467,954,364). In many instances the Governors, in communicating the statistics, have advised the committee that for want of exact data they were compelled to make estimates, and that these estimates were believed to be always under rather than over the truth. Had the time been more extended, and the accounts made up in all cases with more precision, there can be no doubt that the aggregate would have reached four hundred and seventy-five millions, if it did not indeed greatly exceed that sum. And it must be remembered that this does not include the amount raised by State taxation for war expenses, nor any of that vast sum so generously contributed throughout the loyal States by individuals and by associations for the support of the Union cause. It simply includes the amounts that State and municipal authorities raised by loans—a very large proportion of which is still unpaid, and demands the severest form of taxation to provide for its annual interest. With this explanation, the following table of State and local expenditure will be the more clearly understood:

Maine	$12,632,580
New Hampshire	13,125,000
Vermont	8,806,759
Massachusetts	47,809,827
Rhode Island	6,500,772
Connecticut	17,386,151
New York	111,005,953
New Jersey	26,786,421
Pennsylvania	53,527,395
Delaware	1,140,000
Maryland	8,656,458
West Virginia	2,000,000
Ohio	64,867,813
Indiana	22,334,967
Illinois	30,000,000
Michigan	12,000,000
Wisconsin	12,240,795
Minnesota	2,518,361
Iowa	2,200,000
Missouri	9,446,575
Kentucky	2,150,537
Kansas	818,000

Simultaneously with this call upon the States for information in regard to their expenditures, the committee, by a resolution of the House, obtained from the Secretary of War a statement of the number of troops furnished by each State under the several calls during the war, together with an exhibit of the aggregate from each of the States reduced to a uniform standard of three-years service. The tabular statement of the Provost-Marshal General, giving this information, is appended to this report, and it will be seen that the total number of three-years men for the war was two million one hundred and fifty-four thousand three hundred and eleven (2,154,311).

Without entering into any calculation as to the different ratio of expense in raising troops in different States, it will be observed that the average for all the States exhibits the fact that each three-years man that entered the United States service during the war cost about two hundred and twenty dollars besides the amount paid by the General Government. It is not the province of the committee to inquire whether this expenditure was in all cases wisely made. It is sufficient to state that it was actually incurred under what was believed to be the pressing and imperious necessity of the Union cause.

In the judgment of the committee, it would not be fair and equitable to propose any mode of reimbursement to the several States, except that which is based on the number of men furnished by each during the war. All the States were under precisely the same obligation to respond to the call of the Government, in proportion to their respective numbers of enrolled men, and the committee have not therefore felt at liberty to make any discrimination in favor of one State over another in consequence of the different cost in filling their quotas. Local expenditure was, indeed, a recognized necessity in all the States, and strict justice will be maintained by making an impartial reimbursement, exactly proportioned to the aid which each State rendered to the common cause of the Union.

The committee, for the most obvious reasons, have not considered it expedient to attempt a system of reimbursement sufficiently comprehensive to include the total outlay within the States. The burden which would thus be precipitated on the General Government would be too heavy, and might end in oppressing instead of relieving the different members of the Union, by impairing the credit of the whole. But a very substantial, permanent, and grateful relief can be afforded to the States by reimbursing only a minor fraction of their expenditures; and this, in the judgment of the committee, can be done without injuring the credit of the Government in the slightest degree. Indeed, the credit of the Government will be materially strengthened by any prudent measure which will enable the States to provide the means of paying their indebtedness, and thus reducing the rate of local and direct taxation, now so oppressively high throughout the country.

Influenced by these considerations, the committee have agreed to report, as the basis of reimbursement, a sum equivalent to twenty-five per cent. of the average expenditure throughout the loyal States—in other words, fifty-five dollars for each man furnished—service being reduced to the uniform standard of three years. At this rate the following amounts would be reimbursed to the several States :

Maine	$3,112,725
New Hampshire	1,695,485
Vermont	1,597,860
Massachusetts	6,811,420
Rhode Island	983,290
Connecticut	2,778,270
New York	20,993,280
New Jersey	3,068,175
Pennsylvania	14,715,690
Delaware	566,665
Maryland	2,238,060
Carried forward	$58,560,920

Brought forward	$58,560,920
West Virginia	1,520,915
District of Columbia	632,830
Ohio	13,088,680

It is not proposed, of course, to pay this amount to the States in cash. It would not be desirable, even if it were practicable, to make the payment in that way. The mode of reimbursement recommended by the committee is to issue bonds of the United States to the several States for the amounts adjudged to be due them; the bonds to be registered, to be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after twenty years from date, and to bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually in lawful money.

And in issuing bonds for this purpose, it is very important for the interests of the public treasury and the protection of the public credit, that the States should not be allowed to dispose of them until they become redeemable by the Government. Hence the bill submitted expressly declares that the bonds to be issued shall not be negotiable until after the 1st day of July, A. D. 1886, and then only upon the indorsement of the Governor of the State to which the bonds may belong. And it is respectfully submitted that this provision is as much for the advantage of the States as for the General Government, even were it possible that their interests on such a question could be antagonistic. Such a restraint on the States will, with certainty, cause the bonds to be used as a sinking fund for the redemption of whatever State debt may exist, and will effectually prevent their sudden diversion to any scheme which mature reflection might not approve. The indorsement of the Governor being requisite to make the bonds negotiable, a perfect safeguard is thus provided against any fraudulent use of them within the time specified, and also against any loss on account of theft or accidental destruction.

The committee have also deemed it important that each State, on receiving the bonds, shall thereby relinquish all further claim on the General Government for any expenses incurred or losses sustained during the late war, either by the State or by any municipal corporation within the State. The claims which may be preferred are endless in character and in amount, and it will be a great point gained if the General Government can, by a comprehensive payment of the kind now recommended, at once and finally close the door against all demands for specific appropriations of this nature. It is hazarding little to say that, in this view alone, the measure is one of wise and permanent economy to the General Government.

It is believed that the proposed measure is founded on right and justice, because all expenditures that were made to preserve the life of the nation should, as far as practicable, be borne in common by those who share the benefits and blessings of our Government. It would seem flagrantly unjust to leave a heavy local debt on a portion of the States when that debt was incurred for the common benefit of all the States. To ask that the General Government should refund one-quarter part of the local expenditure is certainly a very moderate proposition, and if there be any injustice therein, it consists in not going far enough in the direction of relief to the loyal States.

The increase to the national debt caused by this reimbursement is nominal rather than real. It does not add a single dollar to the debt of the country. It merely changes the form of a certain portion of that debt from a State and local to a national and general obligation, bearing impartially on all the States and on all the people of the Union.

The General Government has the great advantage of monopolizing all the channels of indirect taxation, leaving to the States no mode of raising revenue except that which is the hardest and most oppressive. And the direct local tax comes with all the more severity on a large class of the community—especially holders of real estate—from the fact that so great a proportion of the personal property has sought investment in Government bonds, which are expressly exempt from State and municipal taxation.

Considerations of this character have had a large influence on the committee in proposing the measure which, with these explanations, is now respectfully sub mitted.

JAMES B. FRY,
Provost-Marshal General.

A BILL

TO REIMBURSE THE STATES THAT HAVE FURNISHED TROOPS TO THE UNION ARMY, FOR ADVANCES MADE AND EXPENSES INCURRED IN RAISING THE SAME.

Whereas, The States that furnished troops to the Union army during the late war were subjected to very heavy expenses, amounting in the aggregate to four hundred and seventy-five million dollars, a large proportion of which has assumed the form of oppressive debt; and, whereas, this entire outlay was made for the common cause of the Union, and therefore constitutes an equitable claim on the common treasury of the nation; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there shall be reimbursed by the United States to each of the States that furnished troops to the Union army, and also to the several Territories and the District of Columbia, a sum equal to fifty-five dollars for each man duly enlisted into the military or naval service of the United States during the late war, the total number being reduced to a uniform standard of three-years service, viz:

REPORT

OF THE SURGEON IN CHARGE AT THE VOLUNTEER ROOMS, OF OPERATIONS OF HIS DEPARTMENT DURING THE RAISING OF THE QUOTA OF THE COUNTY OF NEW YORK, UNDER THE PRESIDENT'S CALL DATED DEC. 19, 1864, FOR THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND (300,000) MEN.

REPORT.

To the Honorable, the Committee on Volunteering for the County of New York.

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to present to you my report concerning the examination and inspection of volunteers, substitutes, and regulars, at the rooms of the County Volunteer Committee, in the following order:

PART I.

A FULL STATEMENT OF THE MANNER OF EXAMINING RECRUITS.

PREVIOUS to the war, the examination of recruits for the Regular Army was conducted with remarkable strictness and severity, and it has always been my endeavor, as I believe it has also been of the other surgeons who examined men for your committee, to come as nearly up to the Regular Army standard of examination as in time of war was possible. As an evidence of this, in the sequel of this report you will see that the proportion of men rejected reached sometimes as high as seventy-five per cent. of those examined; and I fear that if the standard of the Regular Army had been more strictly complied with, that the percentage would have reached much higher.

At the commencement of the war, when the national flag floated from every house and shanty in the land, there was no lack of volunteers, and of course there were no bounties. An army had to be raised speedily, and nearly all the material that presented itself was taken. Men were drawn up in a line of some four or five hundred; the examining surgeon would pass down this line, and, if he saw any very atrocious or remarkable case, would throw him out. Sometimes a surgeon stricter than others would order a man to take off his clothing, and then examine him for hernia; but in the majority of cases the men only had a formal examination, and in some instances they were lucky if they were more than looked at. The writer of this report saw quite a number of these men in the hospitals of Virginia and North Carolina. One poor boy in the Hampton Hospital was not more than sixteen years of age. He was stretched on his bed with typhoid fever, and notwithstanding the kind care of Dr. McClellan and his assistants he was fast journeying to that land where the din of battle is never heard. The surgeon in charge of his ward said that he had only been in the army a short time, and that when he was admitted into the hospital he was in such a filthy condition that they were obliged to burn his clothing. Dr. Bartholow, in his Manual on Recruiting, p. 159, says: "In recruiting under the several calls for volunteers to make up the quotas of the several States, too frequently regiments have been filled up without examination of the men, and with little reference to the requirements of the recruiting regulations." But he proceeds: "It was early seen that these regulations were founded in the necessity and fitness of things, and that although unsuitable or disabled men may fill up the rolls, they cannot be made to do the duty of soldiers."

This state of things was undoubtedly in a great degree dependent upon the anxiety of recruiting officers to fill up their commands, so that they could obtain their commissions. And yet, the surgeons who examined these men were required to certify on honor that they had carefully examined them according to the rules and regulations of the army, and that they found nothing either in their physical or mental condition which would in any manner disqualify them for the duties of a soldier.

But let us not be hasty to blame these surgeons: the war had just commenced; men rushed on them faster than they could examine them; and moreover, they themselves were unfamiliar with the work they had to do, and most of them were so much pressed that they had not time, in the few days allowed them, to find out what the "rules and regulations of the army" were. Furthermore, they were in many cases given to understand by regimental officers that they must not strictly apply these rules and regulations to the examination of volunteers.

Let us for a few moments glance at these "Regulations."

The following extracts are from the "Revised Regulations for the Army:"

DUTIES OF RECRUITING OFFICERS, p. 130.

"926. They will not allow any man to be deceived or inveigled into the service by false representations, but will in person explain the nature of the service, the length of the term, the pay, clothing rations, and other allowances to which a soldier is entitled by law, to every man before he signs the enlistment.

"927. If minors present themselves, they are to be treated with great candor. The names and residences of their parents or guardians, if they have any, must be ascertained, and these will be informed of the minor's wish to enlist, that they may make their objections or give their consent.

"929. Any free white male person, between the age of eighteen and thirty-five years, being at least five feet three inches high, effective, able-bodied, sober, free from disease, of good character and habits, and with a competent knowledge of the English language, may be enlisted.

"This regulation, so far as respects the height and age of the recruit, shall not extend to musicians or soldiers who may 're-enlist,' or have served honestly and faithfully a previous enlistment in the army."

"930. No man having a wife or child shall be enlisted in time of peace without special authority obtained from the Adjutant-General's Office through the Superintendent. This rule does not apply to soldiers who 're-enlist.'

"931. No person under the age of twenty-one years is to be enlisted or re-enlisted without the written consent of his parents, guardian, or master. The recruiting officer must be very particular in ascertaining the true age of the recruit.

"932. After the nature of the service and terms of enlistment have been fairly explained to the recruit, the officer, before the enlistments are filled up, will read to him, and offer for his signature, the annexed declaration to be appended to each copy of his enlistment:

"'I, ——— ———, desiring to enlist in the Army of the United States for the period of five years, do declare that I am — — years and ——— months of age; that I have neither wife nor child; that I have never been discharged from the service of the United States on account of disability, or of sentence of a Court Martial, or by order before the expiration of a term of enlistment; and I know of no impediment to my serving honestly and faithfully as a soldier for five years.

"'Witness.

"933. If the recruit be a minor, his parent or guardian, or master, must sign a consent to his enlisting, which will be added to the preceding declaration in the following form:

"'I, ————, do certify that I am the (father, only surviving parent, legal master or guardian, as the case may be), of ——— ———; that the said ——— ——— is ——— years of age: and I do hereby freely give my consent to his enlisting as a soldier in the Army of the United States for the period of five years.

"'——— ———

"'Witness,

"934. The forms of declaration, and of consent in the case of a minor, having been signed and witnessed, the recruit will then be duly examined by the recruiting officer, and surgeon if one be present, and if accepted, the 20th and 87th Articles of War will be read to him, after which he will be allowed time to consider the subject until his mind appears to be fully made up before the oath is administered to him.

"935 As soon as practicable, and at least within six days after his enlistment, the following oath will be administered to the recruit:

"'I, A——— B———, do solemnly swear, or affirm, (as the case may be,) that I will bear true allegiance to the United States of America, and that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies or opposers whatsoever, and observe and obey the orders of the President of the United States, and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to the Rules and Articles for the government of the United States. (See 10th. Art. of War).'

"936. * * * * * * * * * * *

"937. It is the duty of the recruiting officer to be present at the examination of the recruit by the medical officer. (See par. 1261.)

"1261. In passing a recruit, the medical officer is to examine him stripped; to see that he has free use of all his limbs; that his chest is ample; that his hearing, vision and speech are perfect; that he has no tumors or ulcerated or extensively cicatrized legs; no rupture or chronic cutaneous affection; that he has not received any contusion or wound of the head, that may impair his faculties; that he is not a drunkard; is not subject to convulsions; and has no infectious disorder, nor any other that may unfit him for military service."

The examination of recruits for the Regular Army is conducted in the day-time, in a well-lighted room, sufficiently large for a man to run, skip, and hop in.

Before the recruit is stripped, the following formula is submitted to him, and his answers written down:

FORMULA OF EXAMINATION.

Recruit ——— ———.
Age, ———. Occupation, ———.
Born in ———.
Presented by ——— ——— ———.
Have you ever been sick?
When, and of what disease?
Have you any disease now, and if so, what?
Have you ever had fits?
Have you ever received an injury or wound on the head?
Have you ever had a fracture, dislocation, or sprain?
Are you in the habit of drinking, or have you ever had the "horrors?"
Are you subject to piles?
Have you any difficulty in urinating?
Have you ever been vaccinated or had the small-pox?
Head.
Ears.
Face.
Eyes and appendages.
Nose.
Organs of mastication and voice.
Neck.
Chest.
Abdomen.
Genital and urinary organs.
Vertebral column.
Superior extremities.
Inferior extremities.

Rendezvous, &c.

The recruit is then thoroughly examined, first his head, then his ears, eyes, &c., according to the above formula.

Having been entirely stripped, he is made to run around the room in a circuit; he is then made to hop, first on one leg, then on the other; and if this is not enough to test the mobility of his joints and the elasticity of his limbs, he is put through other exercises, at the discretion of the surgeon. After this violent exercise, he is ready for the examination for hernia, after which his heart and lungs are carefully examined. He is then examined for piles, his eyesight thoroughly tested, and the minor points of the inspection are again gone through with, with minute care.

This is an examination for the Regular Army. But this is not all; the recruit having been examined, is next sent to the "Depôt," or Post, and is there examined again, according to the following regulations:

"INSPECTION OF RECRUITS AT DEPÔTS AND POSTS.

"976. The Superintendent or Commanding Officer, will cause a minute and critical inspection to be made of every recruit at a depôt, two days after his arrival, and should any recruit be found unfit for service, or to have been enlisted contrary to law or regulations, he shall assemble a Board of Inspectors, to examine into the case. A Board may also be assembled in a special case, when a concealed defect may become manifest in a recruit, at any time during his detention at the depôt.

"977. Every draft of recruits ordered from a depôt to any regiment or post, shall, immediately preceding his departure, be critically inspected by the Superintendent, or Commanding Officer, and Surgeon; and when necessary, a Board of Inspectors will be convened.

"978. Recruits received at a military post or station shall be carefully inspected by the Commanding Officer and Surgeon, on the third day after their arrival; and if on such inspection, any recruit, in their opinion, be unsound, or otherwise defective, in such a degree as to disqualify him for the duties of a soldier, then a Board of Inspectors will be assembled to examine into and report on the case.

"979. Boards for the inspection of recruits will be composed of the Commanding Officer, the Senior Medical Officer of the Army present, and, if possible, the three Senior Regimental Officers present on duty with the troops.

REJECTED RECRUITS.

"980. In all cases of rejection, the reasons therefor will be stated at large in a special report, to be made by the Board; which, together with the Surgeon's certificate of disability for service, will be forwarded by the Superintendent or commandant of the post direct to the Adjutant-General. In all such cases the commanding officer will cause the articles of clothing which may be issued to the recruit, with the price of each article, to be endorsed on the certificates of disability. If the recommendation of the board for the discharge of the recruit be approved, the authority therefor will be endorsed on the certificate, which will be sent back to be filled up and signed by the commanding officer, who will return the same to the Adjutant-General's Office.

"981. The Board will state in the report whether the disability or other cause of rejection existed before his enlistment; and whether with proper care and examination, it might not have been discovered."

At your Committee-Rooms recruits for the Regular Army were always examined according to the above formula, and a higher standard of moral, mental, and physical qualifications was required than for Volunteers.

This may, at first sight, appear strange; but a moment's reflection will convince any one that this course is not only wise but just, for the Regular Army was intended to be the flower of our forces; if the day wavered it was the Regulars, or some regiment which had been brought up to the Regular standard, that was called upon to save the battle.

The Regular Army has always been the pride of the country, and it would have been a shame to have lowered its standard in any essential or material point.

But I would not for a moment derogate from the merits of our Volunteers; upon them came the brunt of the battle; and their deeds of bravery, hard fighting, and long endurance, will never be forgotten by a grateful people. Nor would I have you think that I ever advocated a low standard of qualifications for them; the examination of Volunteers at your headquarters was conducted as nearly as possible according to the Regular Army mode and formula; the number of rejections show the severity of these examinations, and, I am informed, that out of the thousands examined at your rooms, the Surgeons on duty were only required to report on about eight or nine cases. Nevertheless although theoretically it was not required that a "Volunteer" should be examined as strictly as a "Regular," but few or no orders or instructions were issued for their examination or for the guidance of examining surgeons, with the exception of a few circulars from time to time, and an order for examining drafted men; as follows, viz.:

"85. The following diseases and infirmities are those which disqualify for military service, and for which only drafted men are to be "rejected as physically or mentally unfit for the service," viz.:—

"I. MANIFEST MENTAL IMBECILITY.

"II. Insanity.—This includes well established insanity with liability to recurrence.

"III. Epilepsy.—For this disability the statement of the drafted man is insufficient, and the fact must be established by a duly attested affidavit of a physician in good standing, who has attended him in the disease for six months immediately preceding his examination by the board; and, in addition thereto, such other evidence as the board may require.

"IV. Paralysis, general or of one limb, or chorea; their existence to be adequately determined. Decided atrophy of a limb.

"V. Organic diseases of internal organs, which have so seriously impaired the general health as to leave no doubt of the man's incapacity for military service, and which prevent his pursuing any equally laborious occupation in civil life.

"VI. Developed tuberculosis.

"VII. Cancer, aneurism of the large arteries.

"VIII. Inveterate and extensive disease of the skin, such as will necessarily impair his efficiency as a soldier.

"IX. Permanent physical disability of such a degree as to leave no doubt of the man's unfitness for military service.

"X. Scrofula, or secondary syphilis, which has so seriously impaired his general health as to leave no doubt of the man's incapacity for military service.

"XI. Chronic rheumatism, unless manifested by positive waste of structure, wasting of the affected limb, or puffiness of or distortion of the joints, does not exempt. Impaired motion of the joints and contraction of the limbs, alleged to arise from rheumatism, and in which the nutrition of the limb is not manifestly impaired, are to be proved by examination while in a state of anæsthesia induced by ether only.

"XII. Total loss of sight of right eye, cataract of right eye, loss of crystalline lens of right eye.

"XIII. Partial loss of sight of both eyes, vision being so greatly impaired as to leave no doubt of the man's unfitness for military duty.

"Serious permanent diseases of the eye or eyelids, so manifestly affecting the use of the eyes as to leave no doubt of the man's incapacity for military service.

"Near-sightedness does not exempt.

"XIV. Total loss of nose; deformity of nose so great as seriously to obstruct respiration; ozœna, dependent on caries in progress.

"XV. Decided deafness. This disability must not be admitted on the mere statement of the drafted man, but must be proved by the existence of positive disease, or by other satisfactory evidence; and it must be so decided as to leave no doubt of the man's incapacity for military service.

"Chronic purulent otorrhœa.

"XVI. Incurable diseases or deformities of either jaw, such as will necessarily greatly impede mastication or speech; anchylosis of the lower jaw; caries of the bones of the face, if in progress; cleft palate; very extensive loss of the bones of the cheeks; salivary fistula.

"XVII. Dumbness, permanent loss of voice; not to be admitted without clear proof.

"XVIII. Total loss of tongue, hypertrophy, atrophy, mutilation, or obstinate chronic ulceration of the tongue, if sufficient in degree to interfere seriously with the use of the organ.

"XIX. Stammering, if excessive and confirmed; to be established by satisfactory evidence under oath.

"XX. Total loss of all front teeth, the eye-teeth and first molars, even if only of one jaw.

"XXI. Tumors or wounds of the neck, impeding respiration or deglutition; fistula of larynx or trachea; torticollis, if of long standing and well marked.

"XXII. Excessive deformity of the chest, or excessive curvature of the spine, sufficient to prevent the carrying of arms and military equipments; caries of the spine, ribs or sternum, attended with ulceration.

"XXIII. Hernia.

"XXIV. Artificial anus, stricture of the rectum, prolapsus ani. Fistula in ano, if extensive or complicated with visceral disease.

"XXV. Old and ulcerated internal hæmorrhoids, if in degree sufficient to leave no doubt of the man's unfitness for military service. External hæmorrhoids are no cause for exemption.

"XXVI Total loss, or nearly total loss, of penis; epispadia or hypospadia at the middle or near the root of the penis.

"XXVII. Incurable permanent organic stricture of the urethra, in which the urine is passed drop by drop, or which is complicated by disease of the bladder; urinary fistula. Recent or spasmodic stricture of the urethra does not exempt.

"XXVIII. Incontinence of urine is not of itself a cause for exemption. Stone in the bladder, ascertained by the metallic catheter, is a positive disqualification.

"XXIX. Confirmed or malignant sarcocele; hydrocele, if complicated with organic disease of the testicle. Varicocele is not in itself disqualifying.

"XXX. Loss of hand or foot.

"XXXI. Wounds which would manifestly incapacitate the man for military service; muscular or cutaneous contractions from wounds, or burns, or tumors which would prevent marching, or otherwise manifestly incapacitate the man for military service.

"XXXII. Fractures irreducible, dislocations, or anchylosis of the large joints, or chronic diseases of the joints or bones, that would prevent marching, or otherwise unfit the man for military service.

"XXXIII. Total loss of right thumb; loss of ungueal phalanx of right thumb; total loss of any two fingers of same hand; loss of the first and second phalanges of the fingers of right hand; permanent extension or permanent contraction of two fingers of right hand. All fingers adherent or united.

"XXXIV. Club-feet; total loss of great toe. Other permanent defects or deformation of the feet, such as will necessarily prevent marching.

"XXXV. Varicose veins of inferior extremities; if large and numerous and accompanied with chronic swellings or ulcerations.

"XXXVI. Chronic ulcers; extensive, deep, and adherent cicatrices of the lower extremities.

"86. No limits of stature are established for drafted men, beyond which they shall be exempt from military service.

"The matter of stature shall be considered by the board only in the general examination as to the physical fitness of the man for military service.

But these instructions, based on the Conscription Act, furnished the examining surgeon with no basis for the examination of recruits; for the examination of drafted men differed radically from the examination of volunteers and substitutes, as will be seen in the sequel

But surgeons were not left entirely to their own discretion; they could not do as they pleased, or follow the whims of their superior officers. The following instructions from the Regulations for the government of the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal-General of the United States, lays down their duties very distinctly:

"INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PHYSICAL EXAMINATION OF DRAFTED MEN AND SUBSTITUTES, AND GENERAL REGULATIONS CONCERNING.

"90. The duty of inspecting men, and of determining whether they are fit or unfit for the military service of the country, requires the utmost impartiality, skill, and circumspection on the part of the Examining Surgeon and Board of Enrollment; for upon the manner in which this duty is performed will depend, in a very great degree, the efficiency of the army.

"91. In the examination the Examining Surgeon will bear in mind that the object of the Government is to secure the services of men who are effective, able-bodied, sober, and free from disqualifying diseases.

"92. The Examining Surgeons will also remember that the object of the drafted man in claiming exemption may be to escape from service, by pretending simulated or fictitious diseases, or by exaggerating or aggravating those that really exist; and that the design of substitutes frequently is to conceal disqualifying infirmities.

"93. The examination by the Examining Surgeons is to be conducted in the day-time, in the presence of the Board of Enrollment only, and in a room well lighted and sufficiently large for the drafted man to walk about and exercise his limbs, which he must be required to do briskly.

"94. The man is to be examined stripped.

"95. The Surgeon will habitually conduct his examination of a man in the following manner, to ascertain:

"1. Whether his limbs are well formed and sufficiently muscular; whether they are ulcerated or extensively cicatrized; whether he has free motion of all his joints; and whether there are any varicose veins, tumors, wounds, fractures, dislocations, or sprains that would impede his marching, or prevent continuous muscular exertion.

"2. Whether the thumbs and fingers are complete in number and well formed, and their motion unimpaired

"3. Whether the feet are sufficiently arched to prevent the tuberosity of the scaphoid bone from touching the ground; whether the toes are complete in number, do not overlap, are not joined together, and whether the great toes are free from bunions.

"4. Whether he has any inveterate and extensive disease of the skin.

"5. Whether he is sufficiently intelligent; is not subject to convulsions; and whether he has received any contusions or wounds of the head that may impair his facu'ties

"6. Whether his hearing, vision, and speech are good, and whether the eye and its appendages are free from disqualifying diseases.

"7. Whether he has a sufficient number of teeth in good condition, to masticate his food properly, and to tear his cartridge quickly and with ease. The cartridge is torn with the incisor, canine, or bicuspid teeth.

"8. Whether the chest is ample and well formed, in due proportion to his height, and with power of full expansion.

"9. Whether there is any structural or serious functional disease of the heart.

"10. Whether the abdomen is well formed, and not too protuberant; whether either the liver or spleen is considerably enlarged, and whether the rectum and anus are free from disqualifying diseases.

"11. Whether the spermatic cords and testes are free from diseases which would impair his efficiency; whether the testes are within the scrotum, and whether he has any rupture.

"12. Whether there is any organic disease of the kidney or bladder, or permanent stricture of the urethra.

"13. Whether his physical development is good, and constitution neither naturally feeble nor impaired by disease, habitual intemperance, or solitary vice; whether he is free from phthisis, scrofula, and constitutional syphilis, and whether he is epileptic, imbecile, or insane.

"Many of the physical defects above mentioned are sufficient to disqualify for military service. In determining whether the man is fit or unfit for service, the Board must be governed by the list of diseases and infirmities enumerated in paragraph 85.

"97. Substitutes must be in every respect suitable for the military service, which shall be determined by the Enrolling Board in the manner prescribed for examining recruits."

I would particularly call your attention to the following paragraph, above mentioned, viz.:

"Many of the physical defects above mentioned are sufficient to disqualify for military service. In examining whether a man is unfit for military service, the Board must be governed by the list of diseases and infirmities enumerated in paragraph 85."

This would appear to do away with the strictness of the foregoing instructions; and one might suppose that, although the Government would like to get first-rate men, yet they would be content with men who were not disqualified according to par. 85; but any one so supposing would indeed make a great mistake, for this very section quoted points out the difference between a drafted man, who was to be examined according to paragraph 85, and the examination of a volunteer or substitute, according to paragraph 90.

The status, then, of a drafted man, and of a substitute or volunteer, was not only widely different but radically different; e. g.: "Chronic rheumatism unless manifested by positive change of structure, wasting of the affected limb, or puffiness or distortion of the joints, does not exempt," &c. Therefore a drafted man suffering from ordinary chronic rheumatism would not be exempted, but no surgeon who knew what he was about would accept him as a volunteer. So also incipient consumption did not exempt from the draft; it must be "developed tuberculosis" for exemption; yet no surgeon would pass a volunteer with "incipient consumption," and if he did so knowingly, he would almost be guilty of murder, for who shall say how long it will take "incipient consumption" to become "developed tuberculosis?" Let us take another example from paragraph 90.

Sec. 9. The surgeon is directed to see "whether there is any structural or serious functional disease of the heart."

Whereas, according to section 5, paragraph 85, a functional disease of any internal organ would hardly disqualify.

I might go on and elaborate this point, but these instances are sufficient.

This difference of the examination of these two classes of men oftentimes led to much confusion and great dissatisfaction. Most people could not see why those whom they offered as substitutes should be rejected, when they were held as liable to draft, although they were not as capable of performing military duty as the substitutes they had offerred, and who were rejected. I, myself, saw one man who had large varicose veins, who would have been rejected as a volunteer wherever he offered himself, and yet the Surgeon of the Board of Enrollment in the district where he resided refused to exempt him from the draft.

I knew of another case of a young man discharged from the army for wounds received in battle, after eighteen months' service; and whose certificate of discharge forbade his re-enlistment, yet the Surgeon of his district board refused to exempt, on the ground that he could go in the Veteran Reserve Corps, or perform some kind of service.

It was held that a drafted man must be able to be of some use, but that a recruit must have no physical or mental defect which would disqualify him for the duties of a soldier.

It is not for me to determine whether or no this distinction was just; I simply state the facts.

But I must say that the government was perfectly justifiable in taking every precaution against imposition from both classes of men—from the recruit, and from the drafted man. As the instructions above quoted truly say, drafted men would be likely to simulate diseases or exaggerate those already existing, so as to claim exemption; on the other hand volunteers or substitutes would use their best endeavors to conceal any defect which they might have. Therefore, the surgeon necessarily examined these two classes of men from an entirely different and opposite "stand-point."

Still, although the instructions given in paragraph 90, Regulations for the Government of the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal-General, are very clear and explicit, they were not sufficient for a complete guide to the surgeon in the examination of recruits. The Government expected each and every surgeon in its service to be competent to determine whether a man was fit for military service, and therefore held him personally reponsible for every recruit he accepted. At the commencement of the war there was some excuse for the lax method in the examination of men; for a large army was to be raised and placed on a war footing, and these soldiers had to be examined by surgeons who were inexperienced in military matters, and who knew little or nothing of the requirements of the service for the efficiency of troops.

But when the war had progressed, when our army had become organized, when our surgeons were no longer inexperienced, the government was right in holding surgeons and recruiting officers responsible, according to the army regulations. This then brings us to the second part of this report.

PART II.

THE NECESSARY QUALIFICATIONS OF RECRUITS, AND WHAT WAS REQUIRED FOR A MAN TO PASS THE EXAMINING SURGEON.

We now come to the second part of this report, and I shall endeavor to show as explicitly as possible the necessary qualifications which are required for a man to pass the surgeon, and be mustered into the United States service.

To do this intelligently, it will be necessary to review the rules of nations other than our own, both ancient and modern; and I shall quote freely from distinguished authors who have treated this subject, Dr. Bartholow and others.

Dr. Bartholow says: The Romans, who were a nation of warriors, required every citizen to enlist as a soldier, when the public service required it, from the age of seventeen to forty-six. Nor at first could any one enjoy office in the city who had not served ten campaigns. In certain wars and under certain commanders, there was the greatest alacrity to enlist, but this was not always the case. Sometimes compulsion was requisite, and those who refused were forced to enlist, by fines and corporal punishment. Mutilations were sometimes practised to escape service, hence pollice trunci, poltroons. Ordinarily, several causes of exemption from military service were permitted; as age, if above fifty; disease, or infirmity; officer, being a magistrate or a priest; favor or indulgence granted by the Senate or people; and finally, for serving out the period of military tenure. In sudden emergencies, or in great wars, none of these excuses were held to be sufficient. When the states of Italy were admitted into the alliance, they were required to furnish a certain quota; and the Consuls when about to make a levy, sent them notice of the number of men they were expected to furnish.

Under the feudal system levies of troops were involuntary. Every chieftain called out his retainers whenever it suited his interests or his ambition to do so, or when the king or emperor required an army. But armies were in those times less an institution of the state than the followers and retainers of a number of independent chieftains, who, whilst they flocked to one general standard, yet held allegiance to their immediate chief.

The French were the first in modern times to organize an official body to direct the civil administration of an army, Francis I. having experienced the signal inconvenience of a national army. This innovation on the military feudal system was much improved during the reign of Henry IV. During the reign of Louis XIV. the military institutions rapidly approached perfection.

The Revolution availed itself of all the improvements adopted or prepared in the last years of the monarchy, and substituted for the militia and voluntary enrollment the levy "en masse" and the military conscription.

The law of 18 Fructidor, year six, declared that the services of all citizens were due to the state.

By the law of 1832, explained and illustrated by the laws and ministerial institutions of 1840 and 1857, numerous causes of exemption were admitted, substitutes authorized, and the bounty to volunteers withdrawn. At present, the French army is recruited by conscription and by voluntary engagement. The Council of Revision is the tribunal charged with the supervision of the recruiting service, to hear excuses, and to judge in public session the causes of exemption. The council is composed, 1st, of the prefect, or the counsellor of the prefecture, as president; 2d, of a Counsellor of the prefecture; 3d, a member of the general council of the district,—all of whom are named by the prefect,—and 4th, a general or superior officer, designated by the Emperor. Besides these, a number of intendants militaires, who represent the government, have a consultative voice; the sous préfet of the district, who keeps the reckoning of the young conscripts; and lastly, the physician, who makes the examination, and ascertains the case of infirmity. The commandant of the depôt of recruits attends the Council of Revision at their circuits; he takes note concurrently with the general officer and the sous intendant, of the aptitude, the height, profession, and physical constitution of the conscript.

The military surgeons who accompany the Council of Revision, are chosen by the prefect, upon the indication of the division intendants, from among the physicians of corps or military hospitals, who can be diverted habitually for this purpose.

The decisions of the Council of Revision are fixed and irrevocable. The conscripts who are proclaimed free by the President are definitely liberated from that contingent, but may become the object of another decision by the Council.

The strength of the Prussian army is maintained exclusively by involuntary levies. Every Prussian who has passed the age of twenty, has been a soldier, or he is furnished with a medical certificate, showing that he labors under an infirmity which disqualifies him for military service.

After a man has served three years in the standing army, he is transferred to the militia, a branch of the military force which is called out annually for a period of fourteen days. On reaching thirty-two years of age, he is transferred to another class of militia (the landwehr), a branch of the militia which is never embodied, except in case of emergency. The physical defects which disqualify for service in the Prussian army, are in almost all respects the same given in that part of this work describing the disqualifications for service in our army. Distinctions are made as to the qualifications of recruits for different arms of the service. The standard for the infantry arm is the highest.

Recruits who are unfit for the general duties of the service, are sometimes approved for garrison and veteran battalions.

The British army is recruited by voluntary enlistment.

The ranks of the army are filled up from the lowest orders of society, because there are no opportunities of promotion, and, therefore, no inducement for men of good social position and education to enter.

Some gratuity is necessary to induce men to enlist, and for this purpose three kinds of remuneration are offered to the soldier. First, a sum of money to act as an immediate inducement to enlist. Secondly, a daily rate of remuneration, as nearly as possible equivalent to the ordinary wages of labor; and, thirdly, a prospective provision after a fixed period of service.

Recruits are enlisted either by a regimental recruiting party, or under the direction of the inspecting field officer of the recruiting district.

The first are inspected by the medical officer in charge of the regimental corps to which the man belongs, whose decision in regard to the qualification of the recruit is conclusive. The recruits enlisted under the direction of the recruiting staff are examined at the place where they engaged, and subsequently by the staff surgeon of the district.

No recruit is finally approved until he is examined and reported eligible by the medical officer in charge of the regiment, or the depôt of the corps in which he has enlisted.

Formerly the service of a British soldier was unlimited, or till legally discharged. At present the period of service is ten years for the infantry, and twelve for the cavalry and artillery.

The bounty offered for enlistment has varied at different periods, according to the necessities of the nation. During the Peninsular war, the bounty rose for the best class of recruits, for the unlimited service, to £23 17s. 6d.; and for the limited to £18 12s. 6d. In 1856, before peace had been declared, the bounty was £7. In the following year it fell to £2; but it is now fixed at £3. During the wars of 1812, in which the British nation was engaged, the military and naval forces reached the large number of one million of men: about one-twentieth of the population of the islands.

As the recruits for this large army were drawn almost exclusively from the manual labor portion of the population, it is obvious that the Government entered into competition with the agricultural, mechanical, and manufacturing interests.

With the increase in bounty there was a decrease in the standard of qualification.

It was impossible to maintain a high standard when the number of recruits required bore so large a proportion to the whole population. I have elsewhere quoted the opinion of Mr. Marshall as to the character of the recruits who joined the army of the Peninsula.

I have been thus minute in giving the English experience in raising an army, because our own experience has been similar. The system of voluntary enlistment, and the inducements of bounty and advance of pay, have been followed by the same results here—the ranks have been filled; but the quality of the material has not been commensurate with the expenditure.

In recruiting under the several calls for volunteers to make up the quotas of the respective States, too frequently regiments have been filled up without examining the men, and with little reference to the requirements of the recruiting regulations.

The regimental recruiting, however, has since conformed more nearly to the regulations, for it was early seen that these regulations were founded in the necessity and fitness of things, and that although unsuitable and disabled men may fill up the rolls, they cannot be made to perform the duty of soldiers.

The large bounties offered by the State authorities and the General Government, increased by the patriotism of private individuals, so far from elevating the standard of recruits, became a bounty for fraud. This method of raising an army proved so expensive, and so little satisfactory as to the character of the material, that the draft became necessary.

Under the provision of the "Act for enrolling and calling out the National Forces," approved March 3, 1863, the United States is divided into districts; of which the District of Columbia constitutes one, the Territories one each, and each Congressional district one." The act provides for a Board of Enrolment for each district, to be composed of a Provost-Marshal, and two other persons appointed by the President of the United States, one of whom shall be a licensed and practising physician and surgeon.

The boards of enrolment are required to divide the district into sub-districts of convenient size, if they should deem it necessary, not exceeding two, without the direction of the Secretary of War, and to appoint on and after the 10th day of March next, and in each alternate year thereafter, an enrolling officer for each sub-district, and to furnish him with proper blanks and instructions; and he shall immediately proceed to enroll all persons subject to military duty, and shall note their respective places of residence, as they will be upon the first day of July, 1863, their color, whether white or black, and their occupations respectively.

The national forces thus enrolled are divided into two classes, the first of which comprises all persons subject to military duty between the ages of twenty and thirty-five years, and all unmarried persons subject to do military duty above the age of thirty-five and under the age of forty-five. The second class comprises all other persons subject to do military duty.

The second class are not to be called into service until the first class shall have been called.

All persons drawn in the draft are notified of the same within ten days thereafter by a printed or written notice to be served personally, or by leaving a copy of the same at the last place of residence, requiring them to appear at a designated rendezvous to report for duty.

The object of these provisions of the enrolment act, and the regulations of the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal-General founded upon them, is to secure an efficient army with the least possible expenditure of the life of the nation. There can be no question, I think, that this object is closely approximated to, if not actually attained. It is obviously impossible to frame a conscription act which shall bear equally upon all classes. In the present order of things there must be those upon whom the defence of the state devolves more immediately as a personal effort, whilst to others it becomes an expenditure of substance and treasure. Moreover, as our experience in great wars and internal convulsions is limited, we must copy from those to whom great armies have become a necessity, satisfied if we may adapt their regulations to our own case with moderate success.

The governments of all civilized nations, especially those to whom large standing armies have become a necessity, are fully alive to the great importance of the judicious and careful examination of recruits. The importance of this examination has a twofold aspect, as a pecuniary question and as a military necessity.

The Austrian regulations say that "the duty of inspecting conscripts and recruits requires the utmost skill, impartiality, and circumspection on the part of the medical officer."

The Prussian regulations for the medical examination of recruits, set forth that the duty of inspecting recruits, and of determining whether they are fit or unfit for the military duty of the country, is one of the most difficult and responsible a military surgeon has to perform.

To enable him to execute it correctly, and with suitable promptitude, he would require more knowledge and experience than is generally supposed.

He must possess an intimate acquaintance with anatomy, physiology, and pathology. A knowledge of these sciences is essentially required to qualify him to decide on the health and general efficiency of recruits, and to distinguish defects that may be real from those that are only feigned.

Dr. Fallot says: The duty of inspecting conscripts and recruits is not only an important, but a very difficult task, partly in consequence of the obscurity of the indications or symptoms of some disabilities. But to ascertain the extent or name of a disability is not the only difficulty an examining surgeon meets with: he has also to appreciate the disqualifying degree of an infirmity for the purpose of deciding upon the fitness or unfitness of a man for the army.

It will be perceived from the abstract of the French regulations, and the composition of the Councils of Revision, given in the preceding chapter, that the qualifications of conscripts, in respect to military as well as medical relations, is made a subject of prime importance to the French military system.

Paragraph 90 of the regulations of the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal-General says:

"The duty of inspecting men, and of determining whether they are fit or unfit for the military service of the country, requires the utmost impartiality, skill, and circumspection on the part of the Examining Surgeon and Board of Enrolment; for, upon the manner in which this duty is performed, will depend, in a very great degree, the efficiency of the army."

To insure the careful attention of the recruiting officer and examining surgeon, the recruiting regulations affix a pecuniary penalty for the negligent or careless performance of this duty. If a recruit be rejected when he joins the depôt or regiment, for a mental or physical defect which existed at the time of his enlistment, and which might have been discovered, by proper care and diligence, by the recruiting officer or surgeon, they are held accountable for all expenses connected with the regiment.

The examination by the examining surgeon is to be conducted in the day-time, in the presence of the Board of Enrolment, and in a room well lighted and sufficiently large for the drafted man to walk about and exercise his limbs, which he must be required to do briskly.

Recruits, or drafted men, actuated by motives of delicacy, may be disinclined to submit to an examination stripped. Such a hesitation in a recruit may depend upon a concealed disqualifying infirmity that he is unwilling to have exposed. In either case, the surgeon should inform the man that the practice of examining men stripped is invariable; that the ordeal will not last long, and that his secrets are kept inviolate. If the objection arises from timidity and delicacy alone, the surgeon should be kind in his manner, and patient, and not frighten a good recruit away by abruptness or indelicacy. If it arises from supposed concealed defects, more thorough examination and scrutiny should be made.

In practice, it will be found more convenient to make the whole examination after the man has been stripped.

The ideal which every examining surgeon will probably form in his own mind, and by which, conclusively or inconclusively, he will judge the recruits who come before him, should not be formed after too complete a model. Under the operation of the Enrolment Act, the same standard of efficiency may not be necessary as in recruiting for the regular army; for in the one case the service may not last longer than one, two, or three years, whilst in the other it extends over five. Moreover, drafted men may be classified as is done in the Prussian service, and assigned to different arms of the service, according to the especial fitness of their physical qualifications. Dr. Tripler is of opinion that the only safe rule is, to insist upon a sufficient integrity of all the organs to enable a man to endure the greatest hardships for a severe campaign; and, if the recruit is capable of this, he is as fit to be enlisted for life as he is for three months. Whilst it seems to me this opinion is much too strongly stated, there can be no doubt that the lowest standard of physical efficiency required for military service is not separated by many intermediate degrees from the highest. The examining surgeon of drafted men should reject all those who do not come up to the lowest standard; but the examining surgeon of recruits for the regular army may reject all who do not come up to the highest.

For instance, the regulations of the army fix the minimum height of the recruit at five feet three inches; but neither the Enrolment Act, nor the regulations of the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal-General, have established a rule as to stature; hence, if a drafted man were presented five feet one inch in height, and otherwise physically capable, he must be accepted.

The chief physiological characteristics to be attended to in the examination of recruits or drafted men, are a suitable age, a sufficient stature, and a just correspondence between weight and stature; a capacious chest, aptitude of the limbs, and a perfect condition of the organs of sense; or, as they are tersely expressed in the instructions of the Director-General of the British army, addressed to examining surgeons, "A tolerably just proportion between the trunk and different members of the body." A countenance expressive of health, with a lively eye, skin firm and elastic, lips and teeth in good condition; voice strong, chest capacious and well formed; belly lank, limbs muscular, feet arched and of moderate length; hands rather large than small. Besides these physiological characteristics, there are certain other circumstances entering into the subject of qualification of recruits; as locality, occupation, race—each of which affects either the health, stamina, or military aptitude.

AGE.—I have already discussed in another section the disqualifications due to growth or old age. The age for military service is fixed by the Enrolment Act, for the minimum at twenty years, and the maximum at forty-five. Under the recruiting regulations, the maximum age for a recruit is thirty-five, and the minimum eighteen years. Marshall, who has thorough knowledge of the qualifications of soldiers, derived from long experience in the British army, says: "The period during which a man's efficient service may be relied upon, is limited to between twenty and forty years of age." There can be no doubt, I think, of the correctness of this opinion.

Adolescence is recognised by the size of the head, the straightness of the spinal column, the lack of development of the extremities, and the absence of the third molars or wisdom teeth.

At puberty characteristic changes occur: the voice alters, the beard appears upon the chin, the hair upon the pubes;

the body grows rounder and fuller; the extremities become developed; and from seventeen to twenty-one the wisdom teeth appear.

This last characteristic is the most specific sign of adult age. The bones at this time become thicker, the joints stronger, the shoulders broader, and the muscles firmer and more expanded; the fat of the cellular tissues increases, and, as life progresses, corpulency sometimes supervenes; but frequently also the fat which had accumulated begins to disappear at the middle period of life. Frequently the extremities, face, and neck become thinnest, and the abdomen protuberant.

Wrinkles on the forehead, and "crows' feet" about the eyes, are amongst the earliest indications of advancing age.

Further, the muscles become less plump, and the skin is disposed in folds, especially about the neck; the generative organs become more relaxed, the integument of the scrotum more distensible, and the hair about the temples begins to turn gray. The change in the color of the hair is the least decisive of these signs; for in some families, and as a result of disease or various excesses, the hair becomes gray at a very early period, and therefore it is not always an indication of age. At about forty-five, and occasionally earlier, the arcus senilis appears in some subjects in one or both eyes. Some persons arrive at the maximum of development much sooner than others, although living under the same external conditions,—due to original differences in constitution. They also decline earlier. Some youths are more mature at eighteen than many adults at twenty-one. The divisions into periods of life, by the years of existence, are therefore arbitrary. They do not admit of universal application. The Examining Surgeon will consequently be influenced by the physiological phenomena of evolution or decay in the formation of his opinion as to the qualification of a recruit, and will not depend entirely upon the number of his years.

STATURE.—The standard height has varied in our service from five feet six inches to five feet three inches; it is at present fixed by regulation to the latter.

The question of stature is not at all considered in the Enrolment Act, the determination of the physical capacity of the recruits being left to the judgment of the surgeon. This is probably wise. The stature to a limited extent only is a measure of the physical power of the soldier. Great stature, without a corresponding weight and development, as well as diminutive size, is an abnormity. Uniformity in height, with lofty stature, are matters of great moment in European armies, especially in royal and household troops, where splendor of appearance, and those pleasing externals of military establishment, are the most important part of their use; but necessity and efficiency are the only questions in connection with the height of drafted men.

The standard for the British service, five feet five inches, is the highest adopted by any European government. The French is five feet one inch (one metre 56 millimetres). When the soldiers of the two armes were serving side by side in the Crimea, the French appeared equally, if not more capable of enduring the almost unprecedented fatigues of that famous seige.

In a series of 1439 country recruits examined in the London district:

106	were from	5 ft. 5 in. to	5 ft. 6 in.
658	do.	5 ft. 6 in. to	5 ft. 7 in.
326	do.	5 ft. 7 in. to	5 ft. 8 in.
178	do.	5 ft. 8 in. to	5 ft. 9 in.
86	do.	5 ft. 9 in. to	5 ft. 10 in.
57	do.	5 ft. 10 in. to	5 ft. 11 in.

Twenty-eight were from 5 ft. 11 in. to 6 ft. 6 in. and upwards. A stature less than 5 ft. 5 in. does not appear on the above table, because no recruits are accepted in the British service below that height.

In a series of one thousand French soldiers there were:—

62	of	5 feet 1 inch.
156	"	5 " 2 "
187	"	5 " 3 "
178	"	5 " 4 "
152	"	5 " 5 "
107	"	5 " 6 "
69	"	5 " 7 "

49 of	5 feet	8 inches.
22 "	5 "	9	"
9 "	5 "	10	"
5 "	5 "	11	"
2 "	6 "

The great superiority of the British army in respect of stature is clearly shown by the above tables; but, as already intimated, the French soldiers are not therefore less efficient and enduring.

The stature of recruits presenting for enlistment in our service, and of drafted men, will vary with the nationality, with the locality in which enrolled or enlisted, and with the occupation.

From the record of the recruits received at Newport Barracks, Kentucky, the Western depôt for recruits for the years 1863, 1864, and 1865, it appears that the mean height of Americans	was	5 feet,	8·06	inches.

Irish,	"	5 "	6·92	"
Germans,	"	5 "	5·15	"
Scotch,	"	5 "	7·30	"
English,	"	5 "	5·86	"
French,	"	5 "	6·50	"

The general average appears to be considerably above the average stature in armies of continental Europe.

Notwithstanding this result, it is questionable whether our American soldiers are more physically capable of enduring the fatigues of war. In general, said the Aide Mémoire, "men not very tall, and otherwise well built, resist better the fatigues of war, and are more active than the very tall."

All medical officers who have served with troops in the field must have observed the superiority of men of middle height in respect to endurance and activity. The reason of this is obvious; very tall men usually present evident defects fo conformation.

The increased height is produced by the undue development of the lower limbs, and is not accompanied by corresponding development of the chest, which is often narrow and contracted. Rarely is there increased length of the body. Not only is a man of great stature easily fatigued, because the levers he has to move are longer, and the muscles less developed, but he breaks down more easily under diminished supplies of nourishment, because he requires more for his subsistence than his smaller comrade. I think it will be found as a rule that men of 6 ft. 2 inches and upwards are more objectionable than men of 5 feet 1 inch, or even 5 feet. It is not uncommon to see in our VOLUNTEER REGIMENTS men of FIVE FEET who have undergone, without flinching, all the hardships of this war. The proportion of men six feet and upwards in our hospitals suffering from diseases—chronic dysentery and diarrhœa, hæmorrhoids, etc.—is much greater than men of medium height.

The height of a recruit is determined by the recruiting officer. The real height often differs materially from the apparent. A small recruit, very anxious to enlist, MAY increase his height by artificial means, of which there are some curious instances on record. A drafted man may wish to diminish his real height, so as to fall below the standard. By cutting his hair close to his head and removing the thick cuticle from the soles of the feet, by flexing the head forward a little, protruding the abdomen and slightly bending the knees, a man without being detected may lessen his apparent height a half an inch or more.

Wherever there is a suspicion of fraud, the recruit should be measured extended on his back. In fifty-two recruits measured by Mr. Marshall, with the same standard, with the view of determining how much the horizontal length of a man exceeds the perpendicular height, in five the horizontal length exceeded the perpendicular height half an inch; in five the horizontal length exceeded the perpendicular height three-eighths of an inch; in thirteen the horizontal length exceeded the perpendicular height one-fourth of an inch; in fourteen the horizontal length exceeded the perpendicular height one-eighth of an inch; in fifteen there was no appreciable difference.

In the examining of recruits or drafted men, height is to be considered in connection with weight, muscular and osseous development, and capacity of thorax.

WEIGHT.—That weight which is at once an evidence of a measure of physical power, must not be confounded with obesity, which is a diseased state. There should be a just correspondence and proportion between the age, stature, and weight of the recruit. A man twenty years of age should weigh not less than one hundred and twenty-five pounds (Hammond), and for every inch of height over five feet five inches his weight should increase five pounds.

Neither the recruiting regulations nor the regulations of the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal-General have established any rules as a minimum or maximum weight.

Within the limits already indicated, weight is a better standard of physical power than stature.

Every recruit or drafted man presented for enrolment, who does not evidently conform to a proper standard of weight, should be placed upon a platform scales, with which every recruiting rendezvous should be furnished.

The minimum weight should be established by regulation.

In recruiting under the Enrolment Act, there can be no question that a man weighing less than one hundred and ten pounds, and five feet in height, should be exempted. Recruits for the regular military establishment, five feet three inches high, should not be admitted weighing less than one hundred and twenty pounds.

Men reaching the regulation stature of less weight than this have either some constitutional tendency to disease, or have been exposed to depressing influences retarding growth and development.

The preponderance of height of American soldiers is counterbalanced by deficiency in weight. It is said that our national habit of tobacco-chewing is a potent cause of the national leanness.

It undoubtedly interferes with both primary and secondary assimilation. The use of tobacco is a most prevalent habit in the army. In a hospital under my charge, containing at present eight hundred and thirty-six patients, five hundred and eighty use tobacco in some form—many of them immoderately. The dryness of the climate has something to do with the thinness of Americans. Americans of medium height, and stoutly and compactly built, are undoubtedly better subjects for the military service than the tall. Besides the question of the physical qualification of men of small weight, there are certain mental phenomena due to size worthy of being considered. Small men, as a rule, are more cheerful, active, and enterprising than large men, to the extent of their capacity. They endure hardships and fatigue with more cheerfulness, and recover with more promptness from the depressing influences of defeat.

The maximum, as well as the minimum weight, should be definitely fixed by law or regulation. Excessive obesity is contained in the list of disqualifications for the military service. Under ordinary conditions of stature and development, no man weighing more than two hundred and twenty pounds is fit for active military service. The expression, "strong constitution," says the Aide Memoire, is sometimes deceptive, when applied to an individual who is remarkable only for preponderance of the lymphatic and muscular.

In fact, it often happens that the athlete of herculean frame presents organic affections which render him unsuitable for military service, and which an attentive examination only will reveal.

Capacity of Thorax.—The vital capacity of the chest is one of the best indications of the physical power of an individual. A narrow and contracted, or malformed chest, is usually associated with the strumous diathesis, with the diseases of the contained viscera, or is an evidence of feeble constitution or want of stamina. The researches of Mr. Hutchinson, who has furnished nearly all our information on this subject, have developed some very curious and interesting results. His methods of investigation are too elaborate to be used in the ordinary examination of recruits; but his conclusions are capable of very valuable application. Every recruiting rendezvous should be supplied with a graduated tape, or one of Season's chest-measurers. The spirometer of Hutchinson requires too much careful manipulation to make it useful; and the results determined by it are affected by the height and weight, by the manner in which inspiration and expiration are accomplished, by muscular force, and other circumstances.

The chest-measurer, or the simple graduated tape, will determine all the questions as to the capacity of the thorax necessary to be determined by the Examining Surgeon.

A more convenient method consists in measuring the distance between the nipples with a pair of dividers or a graduated rule, and multiplying the result by four (Hammond). If one side of the chest is to be measured for the purpose of comparison, one end of the graduated tape should be placed on the sternum, midway between the nipples, and the distance measured to this point and a spinous process of a vertebra on the same plane.

The quantity of air which can be expelled from the lungs by a forcible expiration after the deepest inspiration that can be made is named by Mr. Hutchinson the vital capacity. He found that at a temperature of 60° F. 225 cubic inches is the average vital capacity of a healthy person five feet seven inches in height.

For every inch of height above this standard the capacity is increased on an average by eight cubic inches; and for every inch below, it is diminished to the same amount. The capacity of the chest is determined mainly by the mobility of the walls of the chest, but why this mobility should be increased in a definite ratio with the height of the body, is not very evident, since the height is chiefly determined by the length of the legs, and not by the length of the body or depth of the thorax. This curious result, arrived at by Hutchinson, and confirmed by Surgeon-General Hammond and various other observers, is called in question by Surgeon Tripler, who says, "Our observations have led us to the conclusion that the mobility is rather inversely as the circumference of the chest, than directly as the height of the person. As if increased mobility were designed to make up for a less capacity, as indicated by a less diameter; so that the quantity of air consumed does not differ greatly in different men with healthy lungs, whatever may be their relative stature."

For every inch of height the minimum chests increase half an inch, the medium chests somewhat more, and the maximum chests five-eighths.

The extent of mobility of the thorax is a tolerably accurate measure of the respiratory power or vital capacity. To ascertain this the chest is measured; 1st, when expanded to its utmost capacity; 2d, when the air has been as completely as possible expired.

The difference is the extent of mobility. The tape should be applied immediately above the nipples (Hutchinson) or over them (Hammond). Measured at the point, the extent of mobility varies in healthy persons from two to four inches. Dr. Tripler objects to this position of the tape. Now, by passing a tape around the chest above the nipples when the arms are extended above the head, (as they ought to be,) the margins of both the latissimus dorsi and pectoralis major muscles will be included, as well as the fatty development of the breasts themselves; this will give an increased measurement to the parietes of the chest; and when a forced inspiration and expiration are made, the swelling and relaxation of these muscles will give an apparent mobility greater than real. He measured the circumference of the chest by passing the tape round it immediately at the point where the border of the latissimus dorsi springs from the trunk.

The tape will then be found to fall greatly below the nipple. In this way, we find the mobility of the chest is usually two and a-half inches, and seldom exceeds three. Once only have we found it four.

I confess it does not seem to me clear how this mode of measurement can better ascertain the mobility of the chest, or produce results different from those obtained by other observers.

The average degree of mobility is three inches, and two inches should be considered the minimum for military service. Less than this indicates actual disease or a decided tendency thereto.

Hammond is of opinion that no recruit in whom the circumference of the chest, immediately over the nipples, measures less than half the height should be accepted. For the purpose of ascertaining the mean growth around the chest of men of different heights, Dr. Balfour, Staff-Assistant Surgeon, while he was acting in London as district Surgeon, measured 1439 recruits, and constructed the following very interesting table. [See next page.]

In one hundred and fifty recruits examined by Dr. Tripler, the height ranged from five feet four and a half inches to five feet eleven and a half inches, and the circumference of chest varied from two to three inches. The mean circumference of the chest varied from 29·5 inches to 38 inches, and the mobility from two to three inches. The mean circumference was 33.97 inches.

The least circumference was in the tallest men, and the greatest in a man five feet eight and a quarter inches.

Assuming that the circumference of the thorax should equal one-half the height, a man five feet three inches should measure round the chest thirty-one and a half inches.

In practice, this rule for ascertaining the relative capacity will be found of great utility.

For every inch of increase in height there should be an increase of half an inch in the girth of the chest. No man should be enrolled or enlisted having a less circumference of the chest than thirty inches.

Besides, the determination of the capacity measurements should be directed to ascertain the symmetry and correspondence of the two sides of the thorax.

Aptitude of the Limbs.—Aptitude does not necessarily include symmetry. The first depends upon development of bones and muscles, including bony and muscular prominences frequently in striking contrast to the second. The lateral sections of the body are more symmetrical than the inferior and superior parts. The right arm is usually thicker and more developed than the left in right-handed persons, due of course to the greater use; but there is no appreciable difference usually in the inferior extremities. The inferior extremities are sometimes so large and cumbrous as to be out of proportion to the body and upper extremities, constituting a serious defect of conformation.

It is especially important that the joints be mobile and capable of performing all their functions. Without any obvious defect of structure, sometimes the hands and fingers have lost their mobility from long application to certain employments, as in shoemakers, day-laborers, &c. The same imperfection of motion results on the lower extremities in some employments. Each joint should be carefully tested to determine its integrity in the manner heretofore indicated.

Condition of the Organs of Sense.—No point in the examination of recruits, is more important than this. A good recruit will have in perfection the use of the organs of sight and hearing. If the right eye be free from defects minor affections of the left may not be a cause of rejection or exemption from service. There are congenital irregularities and deficiency of the iris, unsightly enough to constitute a deformity, yet not impairing functions. These would not interfere with the usefulness of the man, and hence that surgeon would ill discharge his duties who considered them disqualifications. But the eyes are organs so essential that the utmost care must be exercised to test their integrity. This care is particularly necessary in determining exemptions for short or long sight.

The function of hearing, though less important than sight, should be unimpaired. A soldier needs to hear quickly as well as accurately. The examining surgeon should test this faculty by talking in a high and in a low tone, to ascertain the degree of sensitiveness and accuracy of the organs. The two functions of sight and hearing should in the perfect soldier have their fullest developments.

Experience and use, but more than all necessity, educate these faculties; but the degree of perfection which they may attain, will vary in different individuals.

The senses of taste and smell are much less important to the soldier. Their absence may indicate centric or eccentric lesions of nervous system of grave character, but otherwise would not be a subject for serious apprehension, except the consequent interference with some of the enjoyments of the soldier, or with his ability to discern certain kinds of injury to his health or constitution.

There remains to be considered under the head of the qualifications of recruits, the influence of locality, occupation, race, upon the quality of the material offering for enlistment, or becoming the subject of involuntary levies, in a country such as ours, having so great variety of climate and soil, numerous trades and professions, and representatives of many nationalities and races. These questions of locality, occupation, and race, have an immediate interest and importance to the subject on hand.

Locality affects the question of the suitableness of the recruit, in respect of the hygienic conditions to which he has been subjected, and the influence of those conditions upon his health and stamina.

In the English service, important distinctions are made between town and country recruits, preference being had for the latter, owing to their superiority in development. This superiority is exhibited, not in height—for the great social statist, M. Villormé, has shown that in this respect the inhabitants of cities are superior—but in the development of the chest and extremities, and in power of endurance.

Wherever large numbers of human beings are crowded together in small spaces, as in cities, the general standard of health and physical efficiency becomes lowered. For the whole of France—says Maellott and Parl—the average of exemption for feebleness of constitution is 189 per 1000; but for the 6th group (Champagne), it is 292; and 290 for the 7th (Lorraine, Alsace). It clearly results, therefore, that in those parts of the country, where the population is very dense, the individual interests active, and civilization has attained a high development, there are a greater number of individuals of weak constitutions.

The character of a given locality, as to productiveness of the soil, influences the physical development.

Poverty and wretchedness stunt the growth and impair the strength and activity. Abundant food—cæteris paribus—increases the size and stature. Luxuriance of living, and idleness, are as fatal to the production of healthy men as poverty.

The Gauls (Belgæ) and Teutonic nations were superior in stature and weight to the Romans. Pastoral nations, generally, are more robust than manufacturing and mechanical.

In the United States, the influence of locality upon the physical qualities of recruits is seen, more especially, in malarious regions. Paludal poison, operating through several generations, lessens the reproductive capacity of the people, the size, the weight, and the stamina, and impairs the intellectual faculties. Goitre is becoming endemic in some localities; and cretinism will appear at a period not very remote.

Occupation comes more immediately to be considered than locality in the selection of recruits. Trades and professions requiring confinement indoors and the collections of large numbers of men in communities, have a very depressing influence upon the health and physical effect.

Hence, regiments raised from the class of artisans and mechanics, are less efficient than those raised in the rural districts, and composed of farmers.

This is now witnessed on a large scale in our army, in the comparative endurance, stamina, and activity of regiments from different localities. The factories and workshops do not turn out such men as the lumbermen of Maine and Pennsylvania, or the farmers of the North-west. As a necessary corollary of lowered vitality, we find less courage and enterprise. Men devoted to an indoor occupation and to the peaceful arts are indisposed to face the dangers, and are anxious to avoid fatigues and hardship of war. Certain kinds of mechanics are objectionable—tailors and shoemakers; men who have followed those professions uninterruptedly for fifteen or twenty years, if they have entered them early in life, are commonly unfit for soldiers. Permanent flattening of the thorax and gibbosity, with diminished vital capacity, occur in these occupations.

RACE.—The army of the United States contains representatives of many races and nationalities, differing widely in physical stamina and in aptitude for the military service. There are three principal types, European-Caucasian, Negro, and American, the last named in very insignificant numbers. The European type is composed mainly of the Saxon, Teutonic, and Celtic races, usually variously commingled, and after the lapse of several generations forming a type distinctive of country. This is the type best fitted for warlike achievements, most intelligent, enduring, and having the highest standard of physical qualification.

Moreover, the European has the capability of adaptation to climate greater than any other race.

Besides the mixed European, which has gradually assumed national characteristics, and is sometimes styled the American race, there are in our army many Germans, Irish, Scotch, and French, who preserve not only their native language and manners, but all the physical peculiarities of the races from which they have sprung. As far as my observation extends, the Germans are the least desirable recruits from this true foreign population. They are less capable of enduring fatigue, are more frequently the subjects of rupture, varicose veins, and deformities of the feet, and more addicted to malingering than either of the other races. Of all the soldiers presented for enlistment in our service, the Irish are the most capable physically. Less in stature than the Americans, and less obese than Germans, they have usually greater muscular development, more capacious chests, tighter joints, and more abundant vitality, than either of the others.

The Scotch, of all the foreigners in our army, are the most efficient soldiers. They are not remarkable for considerable stature, weight, or symmetry, but for compact, sinewy, hardy frames, for contempt of fatigue and danger, and for steadiness and courage under fire, and impetuosity in a charge.

The American race is represented to a most limited extent in our army, and the few found are half-breeds semi-civilized. The Indians sometimes serve as allies; but their instincts and habits are entirely opposed to rules of war, and deceptive. The same physical results from the admixture of white and Indian races follow, as in the admixture of white and negro—rapid degeneracy and ultimately extinction. The pure Indian is generally greatly inferior to the white race in physical power, in weight, stature, and longevity.

An unprejudiced view of the various races and nationalities forming our army, will disclose the fact, I think, that the fused European nationalities, constituting what is now known as the North American race, and which begins to assume characters as distinct as those of the English, French, German, or Spanish races, is better fitted for military purposes than either or all of the representatives of foreign nations.

PART III.

MANNER OF EXAMINING MEN AT THE COUNTY VOLUNTEER COMMITTEE HEADQUARTERS.—SEVERITY OF THE EXAMINATION.—INCIDENTS, ETC.

In the previous part of this Report I have endeavored to show the necessary qualification for a recruit to "pass" the Examining Surgeon, and to be mustered into the service of the United States; I shall now, as briefly as possible, relate how men were examined at your headquarters.

The Surgeons on duty at different times, while your Committee were engaged in filling the quotas of the County of New York, were:

Dr. Jacquette, U. S. A.,

Dr. J. W. S. Gouly, U. S. A.,

Dr. J. McNair, U. S. A.,

Dr. C. McMillan, U. S. A.,

Dr. W. Faulkner Browne, U. S. A.,

Dr. F. Ridgeway, U. S. A.,

Dr. —— Moses, U. S. A.,

Dr. W. W. Shew, U. S. A.,

Dr. Wm. F. Deming, U. S. A.; and

who was appointed "Supervisor of the Examination of Recruits." To this gentleman not only myself, but your Committee, and indeed our citizens generally, are greatly indebted, not only for assiduous attention to his duties, but for the kind, gentle, and firm disposition which he exercised in his supervision of the examination of recruits. Severely injured while in the service of the country, and constantly suffering from his injury, he nevertheless made his office no sinecure. When his health would permit, he was always at his post. He examined recruits himself, and he carefully scrutinized those who were examined by others.

Dr. Moses, Dr. Strew, and Dr. Deming were on duty at the Battery. I was ordered to the headquarters at the Park, in May, 1864, and remained on duty there until the closing of the office in April, 1865; and it is only during that time that I am able to report personally.

The arrangements of the office were all that an examining surgeon could require, and no pains were spared by Mr. Blunt to obtain for us all facilities requisite for the speedy and thorough examination of all who presented themselves. When I first went to your headquarters, the surgeon's rooms were only separated from the main building by a strip of sheeting. Brokers and others—outsiders—were in the habit of cutting holes in the canvas so that they could see into the surgeon's room, and hold conversation with the recruits; this was a great source of trouble to the surgeons, but as soon as Mr. Blunt was informed of it, he caused the surgeon's apartments to be inclosed by boarding, and to the rooms thus made were furnished locks and bolts, so that no unauthorized person could gain admission to the dread ordeal. A policeman was stationed at the door. Any man who desired to enlist in the U. S. Army went into the rooms for the requisite examinations, but woe be to the man who brought a recruit and endeavored to pass that guarded door; even shoulder-straps with a single star could only give the wearer admission to the ante-room, where our patient and laborious clerks, Messrs. Larned and Jones, were hard at work, with both eyes wide open.

Apropos of these gentlemen, permit me to say that to them I am greatly indebted for their endeavors to prevent any outside interference. Mr. Larned carefully prepared the "papers" of every man passed, and Mr. Jones took each man to the Mustering Officer, and watched him until he was sworn into the service, so that there was no chance for a broker to substitute an unsound man for the man who had been "passed." This was a common custom with the "broker-recruiting fraternity;" a good man would often be "passed" at a dozen offices, and unsound men substituted for him; but, in consequence of the admirable discipline and excellent clerical force which your Committee furnished, it was next to impossible that they could do this at your Headquarters; and the number of men rejected by the final Boards of Examination proves it. And I can safely say, that at your Headquarters there was no collusion whatever with brokers, or any other outside party. They could not get into the surgeon's room, and could not get near the mustering officer.

Messrs. Collery and Howe, of the police force, who were constantly on duty, deserve great credit for their efficient manner in carrying out the regulations of your Committee and of the surgeons. They always acted as gentlemen, but never forgot that they were officers of the police.

When a man was brought into the Surgeon's Room for examination, Mr. E. S. Larned first took his name, birthplace, age, residence, occupation, etc.; he was then directed to strip, and afterwards subjected to the rigid examination described in Parts I. and II. for Regulars and Volunteers; if found competent, his papers were signed, and he was handed over to the mustering officer; after which, he received his bounty, and was put into the guard-room, whence he went direct to Hart's Island.

If any doubtful case presented itself, the army examining-surgeon generally called to his assistance all the medical talent within reach; and frequently have the surgeons of the Marine Corps, and of the navy, kindly given their counsel and advice. For example: on one occasion a man was brought in for examination with his heart on the right side. This phenomenon sometimes occurs; but I did not like to accept him without a consultation, therefore I sent for the naval surgeon, and for the surgeon of the marine corps. They both examined him very rigidly, and agreed with me that the position of the heart was congenital, and that he was in good health, and therefore the man was passed and mustered in

On one occasion a United States detective brought in a man that he said had been passed at our office. He was apparently very lame, suffering, he alleged, from anchylosis of the hip-joint. He said that when he was examined by the surgeon he was just as bad, and that not only had he been fraudulently passed, but that he had also been cheated out of his bounty. Mr. Blunt put him through a severe cross-questioning. He said that he had been a sailor. Mr. Blunt, who is an old sailor, asked him a number of questions about a ship, and the manner in which it is rigged, and soon discovered that the youth knew very little of what he was talking about. He said that he sailed in a brig, square-rigged forward, and that one day when she was going before the wind, he fell from the extreme end of the upper fore-topsail yard, and striking on the deck, broke his hip, thus causing the injury from which he now suffered. Mr. Blunt then brought him into the surgeon's room. On examining the records, it was found that Dr. McNulty had "passed" him; the doctor was sent for, and set to work to re-examine him in no very gentle manner, and if the case had been as he represented, he would have been hurt; but the doctor saw his game at a glance, and demonstrated it in very short order. Mr. Blunt then called in Dr. Ridgeway who examined him with the same result. He was then examined by the naval surgeon and by myself. The detective, who seemed to think that he had a nice case, went away satisfied that Mr. Blunt, and those connected with the "County Volunteer Headquarters," knew what they were about.

On another occasion I passed a fine hearty-looking German; when he went into the guard-room, another German tried to make off with his money; simultaneously the man appeared to have an epileptic fit, which I soon discovered to be a sham. It was undoubtedly a put-up job, but failed.

I might relate many cases like these, were it necessary; but the preceding and succeeding portions of this Report sufficiently show how men were examined at your Headquarters. I have sometimes thought that, perhaps, the examinations were often too severe; for men who were rejected by us were often (I understand) passed at other places.

Concerning the details of the mode of examination, as I have before remarked, there is very little more to be said, except that the examination-rooms were always open to your Committee; and every day some of the Committee would look in and see that everything was all right. Dr. McNulty, Dr. McMillan, and all on duty, did their utmost to secure able and efficient men for the quota of the County, and always bore in mind that a man enlisted should have the health and stamina for immediate service, without reference to some future time, when he might become efficient; the only exception to this rule being where a man was enlisted for the Regular Army, and was to be sent to a fort or barracks to remain a length of time, then, if he had some temporary disease, readily amenable to treatment, he might be accepted; but in all other cases men were always rejected, where there was even a doubt about them. This may account for the fact that so many rejected at your Headquarters were afterwards accepted elsewhere.

Particular care was also taken that the man should be perfectly sober; it was not sufficient that he was not drunk, but he must be sober. And, as far as possible, the moral qualifications of a recruit were strictly scrutinized; and, as far as I can judge, I believe that the moral stamina of the men enlisted at your Headquarters compared favorably with that of any troops in the Army—especially where they were recruited in large cities—and it should be remembered that those regiments of "roughs," etc., that were no credit to our city, were not raised at your Headquarters.

A very fair proportion of the men passed were of American birth, and the others were distributed among different nationalities, principally German and Irish, both of whom were generally strong and robust, and made good soldiers.

In the succeeding part I shall treat of rejections, and the causes therefor.

PART IV.

DISQUALIFICATIONS WHICH RENDER REJECTION NECESSARY. THE NUMBER OF MEN REJECTED, AND THE CAUSES THEREFOR.

In treating of this subject, I shall first briefly review (relying on the best authorities within my reach), what constitutes a just ground of rejection, and shall then give fully all the statistics of rejections at your headquarters as shown by the records in my possession.

MENTAL INFIRMITIES THAT DISQUALIFY FOR MILITARY DUTY.

Idiocy; Insanity; Manifest Mental Imbecility.

Concerning these infirmities it is not necessary to enter into details, otherwise we should have to write a book on Mental Diseases; and therefore we shall proceed at once to the consideration of

PHYSICAL INFIRMITIES THAT DISQUALIFY FOR MILITARY DUTY.

GENERAL DISQUALIFICATIONS.—Decided feebleness of constitution, whether natural or acquired. Scrofula or constitutional syphilis, which has resisted treatment, and seriously impaired the general health. Habitual and confirmed intemperance, and solitary vice in degree sufficient to have materially enfeebled the constitution, etc., are all absolute causes of rejection.

Concerning them, Dr. Bartholow says: "These general disqualifications consist of imperfect or arrested development, feebleness of constitution, cachexia, extreme youth or old age, too great or too small stature, and insufficient or excessive weight. These are correlative subjects, which may be considered in their connected relations. Imperfect or arrested development, and feebleness of constitution, are usually dependent upon some cachexy; youth and old age, too great and too small stature, and insufficient or excessive weight, either are accompanied by, or produce, feebleness of constitution."

It has been the experience of all wars, that a man whose development is incomplete or arrested, either on account of youth, or some inherited cachexy, so far from being useful, is only an incumbrance to an army. Not only is he incapable of performing the duty required of him, but his frequent attacks of indisposition demand the services of others in taking care of him. McLeod, referring to the recruits who joined the army in the Crimea early in 1855, says: "Many of them were raw boys, ill-conditioned, below the standard age, undeveloped in body, unconfirmed in constitution, and hence without stamina or powers of endurance. Often selected on account of their precocious growth, at once launched into the turmoil, unwonted labor, and hardships of a siege in which the strength of full-grown men soon failed, they were quickly used up. * * * * The hospitals became filled with such unpromising patients, whose 'wizened look' of premature age was remarked by the most casual observers."

During the last three years and five months of the Peninsular War—the period when the greatest activity prevailed—the mean strength of the British army amounted to 61,511 men, and the sick to 13,815, being twenty-two and a half per cent. There is, perhaps, little doubt that a large portion of the inefficient troops were unfit in consequence of inadequate physical strength more than from actual sickness. The mean ratio of inefficiency from wounds did not exceed one and a half per cent.

Feebleness of constitution is one of the most frequent causes of rejection in the French army. The mean annual number of conscripts examined during the years 1831, 1832, 1833, amounted to 125,669, of which number 11,007 were exempted from serving on account of this defect,—nearly 9 per cent.

These quotations apply not only to imperfect and arrested development due to tender age or disease, but also to a class, happily not numerous in our country, which encroaches on the border ground of disease, but yet presents no evidence of constitutional taint or chronic structural change,—men of sedentary life and occupation, not positively ailing, but wanting in vigor of constitution and activity of organic functions. These fall an easy prey to the accidents and hardships of military life. When this feebleness of constitution is apparent and decided, notwithstanding suitable age and height, it constitutes a cause of rejection and exemption from draft.

The cachexia which incapacitates for services include a wide range of constitutional and visceral diseases,—scrofula, cancer, scurvy, constitutional syphilis, malarial, lead, and mercurial poisoning, and the peculiar physical condition induced by the abuse of ardent spirits.

SCROFULA, if well marked, accompanied by swelling of lymphatic glands, enlargement of joints, flabby muscles, languid circulation, and dull, lifeless complexion, renders a man unfit for service. The rule for rejection on the ground of scrofula is not absolute. There are instances—not very numerous, however—of boys who have outlived the early impressions of that cachexy, and have grown up into able-bodied, effective men. Cæteris paribus, the appearance of cicatrices about the neck, or the evidence of scrofulous diathesis, should cause more thorough investigation, and in all cases of doubt it is better to reject or exempt.

CONSTITUTIONAL SYPHILIS.—The secondary and tertiary forms of syphilis, shown by eruptions of the skin and mucous membranes, and affections of the bones, muscles, and joints, constitute an absolute exemption from draft, or a cause of rejection; for, notwithstanding, some cases are readily amenable to treatment, the constitutional infection is almost never cured, and will be surely roused into activity by the exposure and unfavorable hygienic conditions to which the soldier is subjected. The effects of the long continued action of the malaria, of mercurial, or lead poisoning, provided the cachexy be well marked and the constitution thoroughly involved, will constitute a case for exemption from the draft. The exclusion on this ground for the regular service, or for an organized volunteer regiment, is more rigid.

Habitual Drunkenness disqualifies a man for military service, and is a cause for rejection in the examination of a recruit for the Regular Army, or for an organized volunteer regiment.

But there is a state of cachexy or discrasy produced by another vice, still more unfortunate than drunkenness—masturbation. In all of our general hospitals there are numerous instances of men reduced to a most pitiable state of physical weakness and mental imbecility by this vice—a large proportion of them married men, separated for the first time from their wives. If of long standing, maintained by inveterate habit and accompanied with marasmus, loss of memory and power of attention, it constitutes an absolute disqualification for military service. The external signs of this habit are so well known that it is not necessary to enter into a detailed enumeration of them.

Extreme Youth and Old Age, especially the former, have been adverted to as disqualifying conditions in connection with the subject of feebleness of constitution. Under the voluntary system, large numbers of boys, of from fourteen to eighteen years, immature and feeble, have been admitted into the volunteer regiments, most of whom, at no distant day, found their way into the hospitals. The other extreme has been as frequently observed—men of advanced age, many of sixty years and upwards. The present regulations of the army fix the minimum at eighteen years of age, and the maximum at forty-five, exceptions being made in the case of musicians, who may be under the minimum, and soldiers re-enlisting, who may be over the maximum. In the British service, the minimum is eighteen years of age; in the French and Prussian, twenty years; and in the Austrian, nineteen. The act for enrolling and calling out the national forces, wisely fixes the minimum age at twenty years for drafted men. The impolicy of enlisting boys is not only evident during the immediate operations of the war, but in the subsequent life of the nation. In the wars of the First Empire, and in their after-influence upon the French population, both results were thoroughly shown. More than half of the conscripts drawn for the army for the campaign of 1809 were under twenty years of age. After the battle of Leipsic, Napoleon called upon the Senate to fill up the decimated ranks, to which they interposed some objections. "Shame on you!" cried the Emperor; "I demand a levy of three hundred thousand men; but I must have grown men: boys serve only to fill the hospitals and encumber the roadside." The more important after-effects of this enrolment of the youths of the population were exhibited in the depreciation of the general stamina, height, and physical efficiency of the nation. Between 1816 and 1835, out of 5,818,944 young men called for, 1,076,130 were exempted either because of a defect of stature, or divers infirmities. All French writers on this subject are quite emphatic in their opposition to a minimum age less than twenty; and the practice of the French Government is, at present, in accordance with their opinions.

The rule of practice for the examining surgeon to be deduced from these observations is, to reject or exempt very tall men (six feet three inches and upwards), whose chests are narrow and contracted, whose muscular systems are imperfectly developed, and who betray a tendency to hernia, or to a varicose condition of the veins.

Allied to the question of stature is the scarcely less important one of WEIGHT. In the perfect man there is a complete correspondence between the weight and stature. All deviations in either way are departures from the normal standard, and constitute deformities which, if excessive, become disqualifications. A greater weight than two hundred and twenty pounds, unless accompanied by corresponding height and muscular efficiency, is a disqualification for the military service. Ordinarily, a man weighing more than two hundred and twenty pounds, or less than one hundred and ten, should be exempted or rejected in the examination under the recruiting regulations. Great obesity constitutes an absolute cause of objection.

DEAFNESS constitutes a ground of exemption from the draft, and is a cause for rejection or discharge.

Chronic Ophthalmia, complicated with either inversion or eversion of the lids, ulcers or perforations of the cornea, staphyloma or purulent discharge, is a cause for exemption, or rejection, but not always for discharge. Congenital defects of the iris of right eye sufficient to render vision uncertain; rheumatic or syphilitic iritis; adhesions of iris to the capsule of the lens; staphyloma scleroticæ; cataract; loss of lens of right eye; glaucoma; loss of an eye or the use of an eye, provided it be the right; blindness or total loss of sight, either congenital or accidental, are all causes for exemption, for rejection in the examination of recruits, and for discharge.

Myopia, unaccompanied by keratitis, or disease of retina and choroid, is not a ground of exemption under the enrolment act, unless decided, but is a cause for rejection under the recruiting regulations.

Spasmodic motion of the lips (nictation), when genuine, and dependent upon some deep-seated mischief in the eye, will be cause for rejection or exemption.

Strabismus, if very decided, and interfering with the use of the right eye, is a cause for exemption or rejection.

The most usual form of ophthalmic disability for military service, noted by authorities on this subject, is amaurosis. This vague term has well-nigh gone into disuse since the use of the ophthalmoscope has cleared up much that was obscure and indefinite, and assigned ill-understood symptoms to their appropriate lesions. It is no longer true, as it was in the days of Walther, that "amaurosis is a disease in which the patient sees nothing and the physician nothing."

CANCER OF THE INTEGUMENT, noli me tangere, erosive ulcer of the follicles; deformities of the nose, greatly disfiguring the face, altering the voice, and impeding respiration; loss of the whole or part of the nose; affections of the septum, permanent or chronic, sufficient to close the nasal fossæ; polypus of the nose, if large enough to produce great deformity and embarrassment of respiration; ozœna; prevalent and fœtid discharge from the nose, due to old, intractable ulcerations of a specific character, are all absolute causes for rejection.

TEETH.—A carious condition of the teeth, and loss of the incisors and canines, are causes of rejection, not only because the tearing of the cartridge is thereby prevented and the proper mastication of the food is interfered with, but because they are evidences of a depraved state of the general system.

The cartridge is usually torn within the incisors and canines; but this is a point of less importance than the evidence of impaired general health, for a man anxious to load his piece will find means to do it, if he have no teeth, though he may not accomplish it with rhythmical order and precision; but nature resents so important an interference with digestion as the failure to properly triturate the food. If a man have lost the incisors only, it will not constitute a ground of rejection; but if the loss was occasioned by caries and the remaining teeth begin to decay, he will probably prove useless if enrolled or enlisted.

Diseases of the Spine.—Curvature of the cervical, dorsal, or lumbar region; lumbar abscess. All of these, which are absolute disqualifications for military duty, are dependent upon some constitutional vice or cachexy, scrofular or syphilitic.

Angular deformity, which includes gibbosity (gibbosité) of the anterior and posterior part of the thorax, is usually a disqualification. It is a cause for rejection under the recruiting regulations.

Shoulders of unequal height, and greater prominence and development of the right,—sometimes congenital, and frequently due to occupation,—have no connection with spinal disease. The question of rejection turns upon the degree in which such deformity is present, and whether sufficient to incapacitate a man for service. Fractures and dislocations of the spine, it is scarcely necessary to remark, positively disqualify for military duty. Certain diseases of the cerebro-spinal nervous system belong to this class, epilepsy, chorea, paralysis agitans, hemiplegia, paraplegia, paralysis of any part of the body, all of which are adequate causes for exemption, rejection, or discharge from the service.

Neuralgia, if genuine, is an undoubted disqualification for military duty. Dr. Brown-Séquard* includes in the various causes which give origin to neuralgia, carious teeth, tumors pressing on a nerve, neuroma, incised and punctured wounds, injury of nerve, reflex actions, etc.

GOITRE, if large enough to interfere with respiration, to prevent the buttoning of the shirt or the collar of the coat, or osseous degeneration of the thyroid gland, will disqualify.

MALFORMATION OF THE CHEST, or badly united fracture of the ribs or sternum, sufficient to interfere with respiration, caries or necrosis of ribs, deficiency in extent of expansive mobility, greatly diminished vital capacity, evident predisposition to phthisis, phthisis pulmonalis, chronic pneumonia, chronic pleurisy and emphysema, chronic bronchitis, and asthma, are all disqualifying infirmities.

A man of the minimum height of the present Regular Army regulations—five feet three inches—should measure in the circumference of the thorax not less than thirty inches; should have an expansive mobility of not less than two inches; and, as there is a correspondence between the height and weight of a healthy man, should not weigh less than one hundred and ten pounds.

All men under this standard come within the definition of imperfect physical development, or predisposition to phthisis. Very tall, as well as very small men, are frequently deficient in respect to capacity of thorax. It is not only necessary that the chest should be ample, but that there should be no disproportion of its parts: an abnormal depression or bulging usually indicates serious organic mischief. This rule is not invariable, however; for some occupations tend to increase the development of one side out of proportion, and sometimes at the expense of the others.

It is of the utmost importance to recognise in the examination of recruits, any defect in the capacity, or any disease of the thorax. A man with ill-developed chest and diminished power of expansive mobility will very certainly, if admitted into the army, soon become an inmate of the hospital. Occupation, which has much to do with the development of tubercle, should not fail to be considered in connection with the question of admission or rejection.

Diseases of the Heart.—Organic disease of the heart and large arteries, hypertrophy, valvular insufficiency and aneurism, serious and protracted functional derangement, and dropsy dependent upon disease of the heart, are absolute causes for rejection or exemption.

Functional derangements of the heart are not necessarily causes of rejection unless they so seriously impair the general health as to disqualify a man from military duty; they are usually dependent on some gastric or intestinal disease, upon the use of some stimulants, as tobacco, alcoholic beverages, or upon the practice of masturbation.

Diseases of the Abdomen and Digestive Apparatus. Chronic Gastritis.—Chronic gastro-enteritis, chronic disease of the liver or spleen, engorgement or tubercular infiltration of mesentery (marasmus), chronic diarrhæa, chronic dysentery, tænia, chronic peritonitis, with or without effusion, ascites, and obesity, are all causes for rejection or exemption, but not always for discharge. Chronic diarrhæa and dysentery of long standing are so difficult of cure, and the mucous membrane so readily takes on diseased action after an apparent cure when the man is exposed again to the producing causes, that there can be no question as to the disabling nature of these two affections.

Dyspepsia may be considered a disqualifying disease when of long standing, accompanied by general emaciation, vomiting, or regurgitation after meals, obstinate constipation, and hypochondria.

Hæmorrhoids are disqualifying if large, internal, bleeding, ulcerated, and painful.

Fistula in ano, and considerable fissures of the anus, are absolute disqualifications for military duty.

Hernia in all situations is a ground for rejection. A tendency to hernia or relaxed abdominal rings may be a cause for rejection under the recruiting regulations.

Diseases of the Genito-urinary apparatus.—Loss of the penis, absence of testicles from any cause, permanent retraction of one or both testicles within the external ring, are causes for rejection. The retraction of the testicle is a cause for rejection because of the serious accidents to which the organ is exposed in its new position.

Malignant disease, scrofulous or syphilitic sarcocele, hydrocele if large, and atrophy of testicles, are absolute disqualifications for military service.

VARICOCELE and CIRCOCELE may be grounds of exemption or rejection. Epispadias and hypospadias, when not farther from the root of the penis than its middle, urinary fistulæ, and permanent stricture, are absolute disqualifications for military service.

SPERMATORRHŒA, whether due to masturbation, to an ill-cured gonorrhœa, or diseases of seminal vesicles, if so long continued as to have impaired the general health, is a disqualification.

DISEASES OF THE UPPER AND LOWER EXTREMITIES.—Chronic rheumatism, with swelling of the joints, enlargement of the surrounding tissues, earthy deposits, contraction of the tendons, and wasting and loss of motion.

Chronic disease of the joints, due to injury or constitutional disease, as scrofula, rheumatism, gout, syphilis, &c.

Old or irreducible dislocations, or false joints.

Severe sprains, with or without displacement of the bones, followed by permanent deposit about the joint, and impairment of mobility.

Relaxation of the capsular or other ligaments of a joint, with abnormal mobility and voluntary or involuntary luxation of the bones.

Complete or partial anchylosis of an important articulation.

Sinuses communicating with the osseous cavities, the articulations, and with the thickness of spongy bones.

Badly united fractures, sufficient to impede the proper motions of the limb, or otherwise to interfere with the performance of military duty.

Loss of the first phalanx of the thumb of the right hand.

Total loss of either thumb.

Total or partial loss of the index finger of the right hand.

Loss of the first and second phalanges of the fingers of the right hand.

Total loss of any two fingers of same hand.

Mutilation of the last phalanges of the fingers of either hand.

Partial loss of index finger of right hand, although a ground of exemption or rejection, if it consist of loss of more than the last phalanx, is not a sufficient disability to justify discharge; for a trained soldier will not thereby be much embarrassed in handling his piece.

Varicose veins, voluminous and multiplied, render a man unfit for military duty. If the varices are small, not numerous, nor accompanied by marks of ulceration, œdema, or thickening of the integument, they are not necessarily disqualifying. If the deep-seated veins are involved, the varices ancient and voluminous, and the man have long, thin, ill-developed legs, the disqualification is undoubted.

The toes joined together, double or branching; that deformity in which the great toe crosses the other toes, and in which there is great prominence of the articulation of the great toe and first metatarsal bone.

Overriding and superposition of all the toes.

Loss of a great toe; loss of three toes of the same foot; mutilation of the last phalanges of the toes of either foot.

The retraction or inflexion of all the toes of the same foot, or of two toes.

The permanent retraction of the last phalanx of a toe in which the free border of the nail bears upon the ground, or flexion at a right angle of the second toe upon the first, with anchylosis of the articulation.

There can be no doubt of the disqualifying nature of all the above disabilities.

Diseases of the Skin and Appendages.—Alopecia, whether due to any of the diseases mentioned in this class, or to hereditary tendency, if extensive; or if the loss of hair be total, preventing a man wearing a military cap and exposing him to accidents from atmospheric vicissitudes or exposure to the sun's rays, is a reason for exemption, rejection, or discharge; but the temporary alopecia produced by an attack of acute disease, is not a disqualifying infirmity.

Upon "Rejections and the causes thereof" there is but little more to say. These statistics are compiled from the books in my possession. That these records are positively accurate, I cannot say, for they were not all kept under my supervision, or while I was on duty at your office; but according to my judgment, the errors, if there be any, are few, and certainly there are not too many rejections recorded; and if there be any errors, it is through the omission of many though unimportant cases. I myself have seen the days when we were so busy that it was next to impossible for the clerks to record more than the graver causes of rejection: e. g., I have frequently rejected some four or five men for drunkenness or some other very apparent cause while the examination of another man was being conducted. Very often such cases were not recorded. But I am convinced that in the main your Committee will find that these statistics are accurately and carefully prepared.

I would have you bear in mind that this report does not include examinations or rejections made at other places than at your Headquarters.

I think that the average number of rejections was seldom less than 50 per cent., and sometimes it even reached higher, as will be seen by reference to the annexed letter of Dr. Strew, one of the examining Surgeons on duty at your Headquarters.

PART V.

AVERAGE MEASUREMENT OF MEN EXAMINED.—CAPACITY OF THORAX, 30 to 33 INCHES; HEIGHT, $5\frac{3}{12}$.

Concerning the stature of recruits, it should be borne in mind that the standard height of Volunteers during the war was only 5 feet.

Capacity of thorax of those rejected for insufficient development, 27 to 29 inches, and 28 to 30 inches.

PART VI.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM OTHER EXAMINING SURGEONS.

When I commenced this "Report" I hoped to be able to give you the views and experiences of others on duty at your headquarters, as well as my own crude notions; but the return of peace, and disbanding of the vast armies of the Republic, have rendered this impracticable. Many of them are inaccessible to me. But nevertheless I am certain that your Committee will never forget their faithful, unremitting labor for their country. The surgeons were the men who did the work, and work it was, neither easy nor pleasant.

Very respectfully,

WM. FAULKNER BROWNE, M.D.,
Late A. A. Surgeon, U. S. A.

APPENDIX Z.

Report of the Chief of the Enrolment Bureau of Operations in Correcting the Enrolment of the County of New York.

REPORT.

To the Honorable the Special Committee on Volunteering of the Board of Supervisors of the County of New York:

GENTLEMEN—

Having had charge of the work of correcting the United States enrolment of the County of New York, under the direction of your Committee, I have the honor to submit herewith my report of the operations of the Bureau established by you for that purpose.

As introductory to this report, a brief resumé of the facts which led your Committee to undertake the work of correcting the United States enrolment may not be out of place.

The troubles in this County, in 1863, growing out of the draft of that year, and the supposed injustice of the quota assigned this County under the then pending call of the President for men, led to thorough inquiry into the correctness of the enrolment on which it was understood the quota of this County was based. Governor Seymour at once took the matter in hand, and exhaustively discussed the subject with the War Department and the Provost-Marshal's Bureau, at Washington. This discussion finally led to the appointment of a Government Commission, whose report fully sustained Governor Seymour's arguments relative to the injustice of the enrolment on which was based the quota assigned us. This Commission recommended a considerable reduction in the quota assigned the County of New York, and that recommendation the President confirmed to the extent of ordering that the reduction recommended should be made on the then pending call, but with the understanding that his action then should not be held to be a precedent for action under subsequent calls.

When the quotas under the call of July 18, 1864, for five hundred thousand (500,000) men were announced, it was found that the Provost-Marshal's Bureau at Washington had abandoned the principle on which it had been determined to reduce the quota of the County of New York in 1863. Based on the reduced quota under the call of 1863, it was supposed that under this call about sixteen thousand (16,000) men would be demanded; but instead of that, the demand was for twenty-three thousand (23,000). On investigation, it appeared that this increased quota was based on what purported to be a new enrolment of the County of New York, which had been ordered by the Government, in view of the complaints against the enrolment on which the quotas of 1863 were assigned. But it also proved that in making the new enrolment, the Government officials charged with that duty had assumed the old enrolment as a basis, and had made a new enrolment (as they called it) by adding to the old one all the names which could be found not enrolled thereon, without subtracting those names which had been erroneously enrolled, or making any attempt to effect a proper reduction. Hence, if the old enrolment was incorrect, it necessarily followed that the new enrolment must be doubly erroneous. Your Committee at once laid the facts before the Provost-Marshal General's Department at Washington, and demanded that the errors which must necessarily have crept into the new enrolment, made in such a loose manner, should be corrected. Governor Seymour again took the matter in hand, and also made proper representations on the subject to the War Department at Washington. The whole subject was again fully discussed, and on the part of the Government officials resolved itself into the assertion and maintenance of these points:

First—That the existing enrolment of the County of New York must be accepted as it stood, excepting where positive proof of its defectiveness should be presented to the Boards of Enrolment.

Second—That the burden of proof of such defectiveness must be with the people of the County.

All the letters and circulars of the War Department and the Provost-Marshal's Bureau at that time teemed with declarations that, if the enrolment was incorrect, it was the privilege and duty of all good citizens to aid in correcting the same; and the Provost-Marshal General went so far, in a letter to the Secretary of War, dated August 10, 1864, as to deny the truth of the generally received opinion that proof of disability or alienage could only be made by the party whose name was enrolled, in person, using this language:

"All that is necessary in any case is, for any good citizen to show to the Board [of Enrolment] the fact as to the alienage or non-residence of any enrolled man, and his name will be immediately stricken off."

Of course, any expectation that the people of the County would attempt an organized or generally effective method of correcting the enrolment, was out of the question. And indeed had the people been ever so willing, there would not have been half time enough for the work before the pending call was required to be filled. At that time, however, the matter was finally determined by the filling of the quota under the then pending call by the naval credits. (For all the correspondence relating to the subject, see report of your committee of operations in filling the quota of the County of New York under call dated July 18, 1864, for five hundred thousand (500,000) men. Report dated October 1, 1864, pp. 88–230.)

It was quite certain, then, judging from the action of the Government under the call of July 18, 1864, in regard to the quota of the County of New York, that, in case of another call, the County would be compelled to furnish a very large number of men, on the basis of the existing enrolment, unless by some organized effort that enrolment should be corrected.

The quota of July 18, 1864, was filled on the 28th of September, 1864. It was believed that a further call would soon be made, and in order that the County might be beforehand as much as possible on such future call, the business of recruiting was not discontinued. The number of men obtained, however, was so small, that apprehensions were felt that a new call would find the County almost unprepared to fulfil the heavy demand which it was thought might be made upon us. Therefore the necessity of devising some method by which the enrolment could be properly corrected, and the quota correspondingly reduced, became more than ever apparent. As it was still understood, however, that corrections would only be made by enrolling officers, where some person who might be personally cognizant of the fact of exemption appeared before them, it seemed impossible for your committee to do anything in the premises beyond appealing to citizens to put forth the exertion necessary to secure the desired result.

On the 22d of November, Governor Seymour issued a proclamation (see Exhibit "A") calling attention to the fact that he had received a request from Provost-Marshal General Fry, that he would "take such steps as would induce State, municipal and other local authorities, as well as prominent and influential citizens, to co-operate with officers of this (the Provost-Marshal General's) Bureau, in securing an accurate enumeration of the persons liable to military duty in the several districts of the State." The Governor urged all citizens and local authorities alike to give immediate attention to the subject, declaring that, if careless of their own rights and interests in the premises, they could not expect greater care for them by the authorities at Washington than they should show for themselves.

The next day (November 23), Brig.-Gen. William Hays, then Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal of the District, waited upon the chairman of your committee, and laid before him a letter from Provost-Marshal General Fry (see Exhibit "B"), dated November 15, a copy of which had evidently been sent to Governor Seymour, and was referred to by him in his proclamation published November 22. This letter of General Fry, accompanied Circular No. 39 from the Provost-Marshal General's office. (See Exhibit "C.") Circular No. 39 related to the necessity of correcting the enrolment lists in every district and sub-district, and contained instructions to the Boards of Enrolment in regard thereto.

As the Provost-Marshal General's letter required General Hays "to consult with local authorities," with a view to securing "prompt and practical assistance from them in perfecting the enrolment lists," the General took the earliest opportunity to call upon the committee and urge that some organized effort for the correction of the enrolment of this County should be made.

Your committee fully considered the subject. Knowing the necessity for prompt action, and fully believing that unless the County authorities undertook the work it would never be accomplished, it was resolved to propose to the Government authorities that your committee should themselves undertake the labor. To that end, a plan was at once prepared which it was believed would secure the desired end, and was submitted to General Hays. This plan did not propose to make an entire new enrolment. Your committee would have much preferred this, as it would have greatly simplified the matter; but it was doubtful whether an enrolment made by the County authorities would have been any more satisfactory to the Government than the Government enrolment was to the County. Besides, it seemed almost certain that such a proposition would not be acceptable to the Government, inasmuch as both the letter of Provost-Marshal General Fry and Circular No. 39, contemplated only the correcting of the old enrolment. The next best thing, it was believed—and this was taken as a basis for the proposed plan—was to take the names of all the persons enrolled, and by agents and other means to ascertain those who were for any reason improperly enrolled. These facts, with proper evidence in support thereof, it was proposed to submit to the several Boards of Enrolment, and by affidavits of competent persons supplying the place of personal attendance, which attendance it was believed it would be impossible to secure.

This plan, it was well understood, would involve an immense amount of labor. It would require four complete copies of the whole enrolment of the City; every person named, who could be found, would have to be visited; if exempt for any cause, the affidavit of such fact would have to be taken, and duly certified by a Commissioner of Deeds; and then all the evidence collected in regard to each name would need to be securely attached to such name, on a clean copy of the enrolment, and furnished to the respective Boards. As there were nearly one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) names to be thus prepared, it will be perceived that the task looked herculean at the outset, and that its accomplishment would necessarily prove expensive was undoubted. But as every one taken from the quota by this means was sure to prove a saving of three hundred dollars ($300) to the County, and possibly of one thousand dollars ($1,000), it was believed that the expenditure would be justified, no matter how great.

A plan was accordingly drawn up upon the principle suggested (see Exhibit "D"), and submitted to General Hays on the 24th of November, with accompanying letter (see Exhibit "E"), in which the committee offered to bear all the expense of the contemplated work, stipulating only that the Boards of Enrolment should be required to give all the necessary facilities for the prosecution of the work, so far as furnishing the original lists of enrolled men, &c., was concerned.

General Hays expressed his approval of the plan proposed, and proceeded to Washington to personally lay it before the proper authorities. On his return, he verbally reported that the plan had been accepted by the Provost-Marshal General, with the modification that while obtaining evidence of exemption, there should also be obtained all additional names of persons of liable age who did not appear on the old enrolment. Although this modification tended to greatly complicate the matter, requiring practically a new enrolment, as well as the correction of the one already in the hands of the Provost-Marshals, still the importance and necessity of the work admitted of neither discussion nor delay. The modification was therefore agreed to.

It was now nearly the first of December. Nothing had yet been done toward the accomplishment of the contemplated work, beyond the adoption of a plan. It was believed that the work would employ about fifteen hundred (1,500) men for one hundred (100) days, or in other words, that there would be about one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) days' work. The cost was estimated at about six hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($650,000).

It became necessary at once to find extensive accommodations for so large a force as it was evident would be needed. But pending the obtaining of such accommodations, and to prevent any delay, a force was at once detailed to the office of each Provost-Marshal, to make a complete copy of the old enrolment, on which all our new work was to be based.

It was finally determined to commence operations in the buildings Nos. 71 and 73 Duane street, the lease of the upper portion of which was held by the County. Two vacant floors were taken possession of, and the store and basement floors, in addition, were at once rented. These rooms were fitted up with plain pine tables, set on horses, with common chairs—every table and chair being numbered. Hooks were put up all around each room, and numbered to correspond with each chair and table number, for the superfluous clothing of the employés. On each desk was placed a common portfolio, numbered to correspond, in which the copyist might keep the sheets he was working on. Finally, full supplies of inkstands and pens were furnished, and the rooms were ready for work.

Before the first copy of the enrolment at the Provost-Marshal's office was fully completed, the rooms in Duane street were ready for work. The necessary force was at once put on, and the making of the second and third copies (one to be retained by the committee, and one for the use of the printers) was commenced.

The Provost-Marshal's copy was all on sheets of about twenty (20) names, each alphabetically arranged, and running all over the wards. In order to simplify the work of visiting each person, it was necessary to make a fourth copy on slips, and then to divide the same up, so as to bring those residing in one neighborhood together. A fifth copy then became necessary in order to facilitate the work. This copy was made from the slips, which having been correctly arranged as to residences, was copied on sheets. As soon as the work in the copying department had made some progress, another department was organized, which took charge of this work.

At the earliest practicable moment, still another department was put in working order, whose duty it was to take the sheets as prepared from slips, and distribute them in portfolios.

These portfolios were then distributed through still another department to Collectors, who visited every house, and made due returns of the information obtained.

From these returns in still another department all the necessary papers were made out in blank form, and commissioners detailed to take the affidavits required. These returned, they were attached to the blanks, to be returned to the Provost-Marshals, and the work on the old enrolment was complete.

In the meantime, all the names of persons not enrolled were collected together, and made out in sheets in due form for transmission, with the corrections in the old enrolment, to the Provost-Marshals.

(A fuller detail of the organization of the Enrolment Bureau will be found in Exhibit "F.")

It took about thirty (30) days from the time when the work was commenced to get all these departments in full working order. At this time we were notified that we must give up possession of at least a portion of the room we held in Duane street. This bid fair to entirely derange the work, for one portion so entirely depended upon another, that it would have been a great hindrance to have separated any part of it, besides giving much greater opportunity for mistakes. It was finally found necessary to put up a building expressly for the accommodation of this work. And in an incredibly short space of time there was erected an immense wooden building in the Park. But before long it was found that even this was too small, and in order to keep up with the work for the last thirty (30) days, two sets of hands were employed, one set working from eight A. M. to five P. M., and the second set from five P. M. to twelve M.

Among other things which were done to assist in the work of correcting the enrolment, as soon as it was agreed that the work should go on, an extended notice of the object and purposes of the work, under the signature of your committee, was published in all the papers, and was also extensively posted through the medium of large handbills all over the City. This notice (for which see Exhibit "G") called attention to the necessity of the work in hand, and advised every citizen, when he should receive a printed copy of the enrolment, if himself enrolled and exempt, to notify the Provost Marshal of his district, or if he knew of any other person whose name was enrolled and who did not live in the district, to give the same notice; or if knew any liable person not enrolled that he give information of the same.

This was what the Government officials had always claimed should be done; that it was the privilege and duty of every citizen to see that the enrolment was correct; and it was unquestionably the most proper means of correcting the enrolments, for it enabled the Boards of Enrolment to see the party who claimed exemption for himself or neighbor, and to judge for themselves of his credibility; whereas, through the plan your committee were compelled to pursue, they would be required to take the evidence (aside from the affidavits prescribed) of men whom the Board knew nothing of, in behalf of those of whom the agents who collected the information were equally ignorant.

The appeal of your committee produced some effect, though it was not heeded as fully as it should have been. But enough of the exempt and those seeking other information called upon the Provost-Marshals to show them that if the corrections demanded were made, there would be practically no enrolment left. One or two of these officials had from the first looked unkindly upon the efforts of your committee, and in one instance pains were taken to impress the authorities at Washington with the belief that the whole effort of your committee was to take names off the enrolment, without adding any thereto. This was entirely untrue. Knowing that the Washington authorities were likely to be especially jealous upon this point, and that any neglect to carry out that portion of the programme would be likely to result in the rejection of the whole work when corrected, every means possible had been taken to secure that every man, liable found not enrolled, should be added to the list. Every collector was given a certain beat to visit, to inquire as to the existence or liability of those enrolled, and was especially instructed that where there were houses on his route in which there appeared no names on the old enrolment as living, he should make full inquiries as to whether there were any there who should be enrolled, and, if there were, to enrol them. Instructions were also given that in every house visited to make inquiries in regard to enrolled persons, the same course should be pursued. Conscious of having discharged every requirement in this particular, and hearing of the misrepresentations made to Washington, a letter (Exhibit marked "H") was prepared and dispatched to Provost-Marshal General Fry, fully explaining the workings of the plan adopted by your committee, and conclusively proving by examples which were forwarded him of that day's work (Exhibit marked "I") that every effort was being made to deal justly by the Government, as well as the people, in the matter, and to secure that the new enrolment should be as perfect as, with our ever-varying population, it was possible to make such a work.

Toward the close of January, 1865, the whole work on the enrolment was being rapidly closed up, and the Fourth Congressional District, being the one first commenced, was nearly complete. General Hays was notified of that fact, and by his direction a consultation was subsequently held by the General and the various Provost-Marshals with your committee, with a view to determining exactly how the corrections to the old enrolment were to be disposed of, when turned over to the Provost-Marshals. General Hays and the Provost-Marshals were shown over the building occupied by the work, and the whole modus operandi fully explained—the completed sheets being opened to inspection. After some discussion, it was agreed among these gentlemen that whenever a person whose name was enrolled could not be found, the evidence collected and entered in the blank should be deemed sufficient; that names of liable men which had been collected, and which did not appear on the old enrolment, should be added to the lists; but that in all cases where affidavits of non-liability were published, notices in form then and there agreed upon (see Exhibit "J") should be served upon the party, at the expense of the County, notifying him to attend at the office of the Provost-Marshal, in case he should not have done so, in support of his affidavit alleging exemption from draft; and if he failed to appear within ten days from the date of the notice, that then he would be presumed to have waived his claim to exemption. This was additional labor put upon your committee, but they did not demur, determined that nothing should be left untried to accomplish the result in view. This agreement had hardly been entered into with General Hays, when that officer was superseded by Brigadier-General E. W. Hinks, as Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal General of the District.

This rendered it necessary that a full explanation should be made to a new officer, and that a new agreement as to the disposition of the enrolment should be made with him. Newly entering upon the responsible duties of the office of Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal of the District, it was necessarily some days before he could give the necessary attention to the matter; but General Hinks seemed, on examination, to be satisfied that the work of correcting the enrolment had been honestly and faithfully performed.

It is proper to say that both Generals Hays and Hinks appreciated the object of your committee and the obligations of the Government in the premises, and gave all the assistance in their power to the accomplishment of the object in view.

On the 28th of February, the new and corrected enrolment of the Fourth District having been completed, a letter was sent to General Hinks, asking him to call at the Enrolment Bureau, examine the work, and give some special directions in regard to the disposition of the same. (Exhibit marked "K.")

On the 2d of March, the note of February 28 was returned with an indorsement, stating that the corrected enrolment might be turned over to the Provost-Marshal of the Fourth District, who had full instructions in the matter. (Exhibit marked "L.")

This did not quite satisfy your committee, inasmuch as it was understood that a draft was about to be ordered, and that General Hinks was about to be superseded. In such case it was just possible that the citizens of the County might be placed in a worse position with the new enrolment in the hands of the District Provost-Marshals than if those officials were left to do their best with the old enrolment, for they might have added to the old enrolment all the new names without removing any of the old. It was, therefore, determined to wait until the new Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal should be announced, in order that we might obtain proper guarantees from him that our work, when turned over, would not be used to the disadvantage of the citizens of the County. Hence, as soon as we learned (March 2) that General Hinks had issued instructions to the Provost-Marshals in regard to the enrolment, a copy was obtained, which proved to be, in substance, the form finally agreed upon with General Hays. (Exhibit marked "M.")

While getting ready the notices contemplated by the order of General Hinks, that officer, as had been rumored would be the case, was removed, and Lieutenant-Colonel Dodge substituted in his place. Of course, our whole work had to be gone over again with General Dodge, and pending our efforts and explanations to that officer, the draft was threatened.

Your committee learned that draft lists had been prepared in all the districts, and that the wheel was ready to revolve in all the districts at any moment. This seemed ungenerous, in view of the fact that the estimated time in which we had proposed to complete our work had hardly expired, and that in fact the greater portion of it was ready for delivery. On consultation, your committee believed it would be extremely injurious to give any part of the corrected enrolment to the Provost-Marshals, unless we were guaranteed that it should be fairly used; in other words, that we should receive assurances that if any new names collected by us should be added, that the draft should not be enforced until a reasonable time had been allowed all those who had filed affidavits of exemption to personally appear in support thereof.

But no such guarantee, nor indeed any other, could be obtained. While the matter was under discussion in some of the districts, the draft commenced.

It was thus rendered certain that the Government officials had come to the determination that they would not allow the new enrolment to be used, except on their own terms. As there seemed to be no use of further effort in that direction, the work was closed.

The work of your committee had thoroughly demonstrated the inaccuracy of the old enrolment. And as this was known to the Government officials, it is supposed that this fact, as much as any other, led to a disinclination to accept the new work. It was believed that if the quota had been reassigned on the new enrolment, as completed by your committee, the number of men to have been raised by the County of New York would have been reduced one-half. A brief statement of the result in the First District Enrolment, composed of the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Eighth Wards, will show how the old and new enrolments stood:

There were on the old enrolment a total of Twenty-seven thousand six hundred and forty-one.....	27,641	names.
From these there appeared on our lists, as entitled to be deducted because of exemption or non-residence, Seventeen thousand one hundred and ninety....	17,190	"
Leaving as clearly liable on the old enrolment, Ten thousand four hundred and fifty-one	10,451	"
Add the number clearly liable, collected on the new enrolment, Four thousand one hundred.....	4,100	"
Making the total number liable on the enrolment, as revised, Fourteen thousand five hundred and fifty-one.....	14,551	"

Deducting this total number of fourteen thousand five hundred and fifty-one (14,551) names, found to be liable on the enrolment as revised, from the twenty-seven thousand six hundred and forty-one (27,641) names which appeared on the old enrolment, the reduction in the enrolment made by your committee amounted to thirteen thousand and ninety (13,090) names.

Exhibit marked "N" is a statement by wards, showing the result of the correction of the enrolment in the Fourth District.

In further proof of the incorrectness of the enrolment of the Fourth District, it is only necessary to take the report of one day's work on the draft. On the 4th of April, one hundred and twenty-five (125) conscripts were notified to report on the 6th. Of this number only eighteen (18) could be found, and out of these eighteen (18) only one (1) could be held as liable.

Among the beauties of the old enrolment, the draft in the Ninth District may be cited. Here, on the 30th of March, "Peas, Mutton, Tenth avenue, between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh street," was drawn, and shortly after "Sodawater, No. 557 West Forty-eighth street." We doubt if any better commentary on the errors of the old enrolment could be cited.

For the purpose of more clearly showing the defectiveness of the old enrolment, appended hereto (Exhibit O) is a statement giving the names and residences of the men drafted in the First Ward, Fourth District. Annexed to each name is the information gathered in regard thereto by the employés of the Enrolment Bureau. It is no wonder that out of one hundred and twenty (120) conscripts drawn on the 4th, but eighteen (18) could be found on the 6th, and of that eighteen but one (1) could be held. Nor with such a record can it be disputed that the number in the Fourth District liable to draft was more probably fourteen thousand five hundred and fifty-one (14,551), as ascertained through the Enrolment Bureau, instead of twenty-seven thousand six hundred and forty-one (27,641), as appeared by the enrolment.

In conclusion, it may be safely said that no work of this magnitude was ever carried on, where the results attained were more convincing that the labor was necessary. That it did not become practically useful was undoubtedly owing to the fact that its acceptance would have exposed errors so glaring as to have justly excited the indignation of every citizen of the County that such an imposition upon them should have been attempted.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Chief of Enrolling Bureau.

Exhibit A.

PROCLAMATION OF GOVERNOR SEYMOUR RELATIVE TO THE NECESSITY OF CORRECTING THE ENROLMENT.

I have this day received a request from Provost-Marshal General Fry, dated the 15th instant, "that I will take such steps as will induce State, municipal and other local authorities, as well as prominent and influential citizens, to co-operate with officers of this Bureau in securing an accurate enumeration of the persons liable to military duty in the several districts of the State."

The object of this request is to get a correct quota for the future drafts, to save towns and cities from sending more than their full share of troops, and to see that all are enrolled who are liable under the law for drafting soldiers into the service of the United States.

I therefore urge upon all citizens immediate attention to this subject. When the call is made, it will be too late to correct errors.

Heretofore, when I have objected to the excessive quotas of the districts, I was told that there was a lack of vigilance on the part of our people in making timely corrections of the lists.

If the names of those not liable to duty are enrolled, the quotas which districts will be compelled to furnish will be unduly increased, although the persons thus improperly put upon the lists may be saved from the draft. On the other hand, if the names of those who are liable to duty are omitted, it will make greater chances against those whose names are put into the lottery of the conscription.

If citizens or officials will not attend to their duty in this matter, they must not complain of the injustice of the enrolment. It is the duty of Enrolling Boards to show their lists to all who may apply, and it is the right of every person to have errors corrected, whether they affect him individually or not. If any hindrances are put in the way of this, complaint should at once be made to me.

I exhort our public journals, by constant notices, to call the attention of our citizens to this subject. It deeply concerns the welfare of all classes. By prompt and diligent attention, we will be saved from unequal quotas and from a heavy amount of taxation upon the several towns and cities.

A large share of our local indebtedness is due to the want of vigilance in correcting the enrolments. In other States the town and city authorities have looked closely into the lists. The indifference of our people to this subject has thrown upon New York an excessive share of the sacrifices and costs of the war.

We cannot expect the authorities at Washington to feel more concern with regard to our quotas than our people show for themselves. Neither can this department successfully contend against errors affecting the people of the State, while our citizens are careless about their own rights and interests.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and affixed the privy-seal of the State, at the City of [L. S.] Albany, this twenty-first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four.

HORATIO SEYMOUR.

LETTER OF PROVOST-MARSHAL GENERAL FRY TO ACTING ASSISTANT PROVOST-MARSHAL GENERAL HAYS, RELATIVE TO CORRECTING THE ENROLMENT:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
PROVOST-MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., Nov. 15, 1864.

Brigadier-General WILLIAM HAYS,
Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal General,
New York City, N. Y.:

GENERAL—

Circular No. 39, in reference to correction of the enrolment, has this day been issued. The subject is one which requires the closest attention of the officers of this Bureau.

The work must, therefore, be performed mainly by the employés we have under pay, and by securing the assistance and co-operation of the people in every sub-district.

They should understand that it is plainly for the interest of each subdistrict to have stricken from the lists all names improperly enrolled, because an excess of names increases the quota called for from such subdistrict; and that it is equally for the interest of each person enrolled in a given subdistrict to place upon the list all persons in the subdistrict liable to military duty, because the greater the number to be drawn from the less the chance that any particular individual will be drawn.

It is the personal interest of every enrolled man that the quota in which he is concerned shall not be made too large, and that his own chances for draft shall not be unjustly increased; both these objects will be obtained if all parties will aid in striking out the wrong names and putting in the right ones.

Especially is this the interest of those drafted men who, by putting in substitutes themselves liable to draft, have secured exemption, which by the terms of the law holds good only until the present enrolment is exhausted in their subdistrict. Men who are over forty-five (45) years of age, and in consequence excused by law from the performance of duty in the field, owe it to the cause and to the country to take a zealous and active part in the correction of the enrolment lists—a military service of the first importance. The law requires that quotas shall be assigned in proportion to the enrolment, and the fairness and justice of the mode of determining the amount of military service due from each and every section of the country cannot be doubted, if the enrolment is made as nearly perfect as it is practicable to make it. The amount of service due to the nation from every town or county is thus laid fairly and plainly before the citizens, and I am sure that a higher motive than selfish interest will prompt all to do their share in perfecting the enrolment and securing a just and efficient execution of the laws for raising troops whenever it becomes necessary to apply them.

Confer with the State and local authorities, and present the foregoing views to them, and secure, if possible, prompt and practical assistance from them in perfecting the enrolment lists. The subject should receive the attention of town, precinct, and ward meetings and committees.

I am, General,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed) JAMES B. FRY,

Provost-Marshal General.

CIRCULAR FROM PROVOST-MARSHAL GENERAL FRY RELATIVE TO THE ENROLMENT.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
PROVOST-MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., Nov. 15, 1864.

[Circular No. 39.]

Attention is again called to the necessity of correcting the enrolment lists in every district and subdistrict. While the Board is responsible as a body for the enrolment, the Commissioner of the Board will be required to give his particular attention to the correction, revision and preservation of the lists, and to the preparation of all reports and returns in regard to them; and he is hereby especially directed to see that monthly reports of the corrections made in the enrolment for the preceding month are promptly forwarded to this office on or before the 3d day of every month.

Circular No. 24, from this office, dated June 25, 1864, is reproduced and revised for the guidance of all concerned. It is as follows:

"The attention of the Boards of Enrolment is called to section six of the act amendatory to the Enrolment Act, which is in the following words, viz.:

"SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That Boards of Enrolment shall enroll all persons liable to draft under the provisions of this act, and the act to which this is an amendment, whose names may have been omitted by the proper enrolling officers; all persons who shall arrive at the age of twenty years before the draft; all aliens who shall declare their intention to become citizens; all persons discharged from the military or naval service of the United States who have not been in such service two years during the present war; and all persons who have been exempted under the provisions of the second section of the act to which this is an amendment, but who are not exempted by the provisions of this act; and said Boards of Enrolment shall release and discharge from draft all persons who, between the time of the enrolment and the draft, shall have arrived at the age of forty-five years, and shall strike the names of such persons from the enrolment."

Attention is also called to paragraphs fifty-five, fifty-six, fifty-seven, fifty-eight, fifty-nine, sixty, sixty-one, sixty-two, Revised Regulations for the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal General.

It is to be borne in mind by the boards that their du ties in regard to the correction of the enrolment do not cease with its revision as recently completed or now in progress. On the contrary, the revision of these lists is a continuous duty, to which the labors of all the boards must be directed. The names of all persons liable to military duty taking up their residence in a subdistrict, as well as all in the subdistrict who, from time to time, become liable, shall be added to the enrolment lists; and the names of persons who enlist into the military or naval service, or who remove permanently from a district, or whose liability terminates while in it, will be stricken off; and in case of removal, whenever it is practicable, the Board of Enrolment of the district to which the person removes will be notified, and he will be enrolled by that board.

"The Board of Enrolment shall have copies of the enrolment lists open to the examination of the public at all proper times, and shall give public notice that any person may appear before the board and have any name stricken off the list, if he can show, to the satisfaction of the board, that the person named is not properly enrolled, on account of:

"1. Alienage;

"2. Non-residence;

"3. Over age;

"4. Permanent physical disability, in such a degree as to render the person not a proper subject for enrolment under the law and regulations;

"5. Having served in the military or naval service two years during the present war, and been honorably discharged."

Civil officers, clergymen, and all other prominent citizens, are invited to appear at all times before the board, to point out errors in the lists, and to give such information in their possession as may aid in the correction and revision thereof.

To the duty of hearing and acting upon a claim for exemption, boards of enrolment are enjoined to devote all the time that can be spared from other less pressing duties. They will report to the Provost-Marshal General, for the purpose of correcting lists on file at the end of each month, upon sheets of consolidated enrolment lists, the names and residences of all persons who have been added to or stricken from the rolls during the month. They will send with each report a recapitulation, showing, in concise terms, the number enrolled at the time of forwarding the last list, the number stricken from the enrolment, and the number added to it since that time, and its actual condition at date of report.

JAMES B. FRY,

Provost-Marshal General.

Plan for the Correction of the Enrolment of the County of New York.

New York County Enrolment Bureau.

PLAN.

I. A complete copy of the enrolment will be obtained from each Provost-Marshal on the usual blanks.

II. These copies shall be arranged by wards.

III. The work of correction will be done as follows:

1. In each ward a number of officers shall be appointed equal to three for each of the present election districts, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of the duties assigned them.

2. These officers shall be selected by the Committee on Volunteering, or by the Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal General.

3. Their duty shall be to take each blank as prepared, visit each house which appears upon the rolls, and ascertain—

A. Whether each person whose name is recorded is a resident therein.

B. Whether he is exempt from draft for either of the following reasons:

a. Over forty-five years of age.

b. Under twenty years of age.

c. Alienage.

d. Having furnished a substitute in anticipation of the draft.

e. Having been drafted and furnished a substitute.

f. Having been drafted and paid commutation.

g. Having been drafted and received a certificate of permanent physical disability.

h. Being permanently physically disqualified.

i. Having served two years in the army or navy during the present war, and been honorably discharged.

IV. Whenever any of the above exemptions shall appear, or any discrepancy shall be found between the Provost-Marshal's enrolments and the facts, that discrepancy shall be noted in the margin of the blank under the head of "remarks," and no change shall under any circumstances be made in the body of the blanks.

V. After the blanks shall have gone through the hands of the officers appointed to make the corrections, a copy will be made, and the originals handed over to the Provost-Marshals of the districts.

VI. The Provost-Marshals shall at once examine the corrected rolls, and strike from the rolls on file in their office, and also on the rolls furnished them, such names as it shall appear by the corrected returns should be stricken off.

VII. The rolls furnished Provost-Marshals will then be returned, and in all cases where exemption is alleged, and Provost-Marshals shall not deem the memorandum of the Collector sufficient to justify the striking of the name from the roll, due efforts will be made to procure the necessary affidavits to establish the alleged exemption.

VIII. All the expenses of this correction, including all clerk-hire, will be paid by the County.

IX. The Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal General will issue an order directing the Assistant Provost-Marshals of districts to furnish all facilities for carrying out this plan.

LETTER OF ORISON BLUNT TO GENERAL HAYS, SUBMITTING PLAN FOR THE CORRECTION OF THE ENROLMENT OF THE COUNTY OF NEW YORK.

COUNTY VOLUNTEER COMMITTEE,
New York, Nov. 24, 1864.

Brigadier-General WILLIAM HAYS,
Acting Assistant P. M. General:

SIR—

Circular No. 39 from the Provost-Marshal General's office, and the proclamation of the Governor in regard to the enrolment, calls attention to the necessity of municipal authorities undertaking the work of correcting the enrolment, with a view to having proper quotas assigned under any future call of the President for men.

The County Committee on Volunteering have determined to undertake the task, so far as regards the County of New York, knowing from experience that such labor in our City would not be otherwise performed. Why this is it is needless now to discuss; sufficient that the fact is so.

The duty, therefore, devolving upon the County authorities, and you having kindly offered your co-operation, we will at once enter upon this work, under a systematic plan to be immediately agreed upon.

We believe that the Provost-Marshal's Department, equally with ourselves, is anxious that all cause for dissatisfaction in regard to our enrolment should be removed, and we believe also that our taking this matter in hand will allay much of the dissatisfaction as regards the enrolment which has hitherto existed. In correcting this enrolment, it will be our desire as well as our effort to secure as a result a perfectly fair enrolment of this County, and to this end I herewith submit a plan for your approval, on which I trust you will take speedy action.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed) ORISON BLUNT,

Chairman N. Y. Co. Com. on Vol.

Exhibit F.

DETAILED STATEMENT OF PLAN PURSUED IN THE WORK OF CORRECTING THE ENROLMENT OF THE COUNTY OF NEW YORK.

First—The whole enrolment in the hands of the Provost-Marshals was copied. This copy was marked "original," and had to be returned to the Provost-Marshals when completed, with corrections marked thereon, affidavits attached, &c.

Second—A second copy of the enrolment was made, marked "duplicate," to be retained by the committee, and made to correspond exactly with the "original" when turned over to the Provost-Marshals.

Third—A third copy was made, marked "triplicate," for the use of the printer, and from which the enrolment was printed and circulated.

Fourth—The Provost-Marshal's enrolment was arranged alphabetically. To have proceeded with the work of correction in sheets thus arranged, would have been next to impossible, as of the twenty names on a sheet the residences were, in nearly all cases, so very far apart as to make the labor of correcting tenfold greater than it would be if all the persons enrolled in any one house were on one street and close together. It therefore became necessary to reduce the enrolment as alphabetically arranged to an arrangement of streets and numbers. For this purpose, on blank slips, properly prepared, was written each name enrolled, and all the facts relating to such name, one slip being used for each name. This was really a fourth copy of the whole enrolment. These slips, when completed by wards, were placed in the hands of a practical printer, who, with his assistants, arranged them so as, first, to bring all the names in any one street together; second, they were re-arranged so as to bring all the names in any one house together; and then, third, they were all re-arranged in numerical order, each street and each house thus being placed by itself.

Fifth—These slips, when thus prepared, were copied on blank sheets, marked "Collector's sheet," to be used in the work of correction. Thus a fifth copy of the whole enrolment was made. These sheets were an exact copy of the original, changed from alphabetical rotation to rotation in streets and numbers.

Sixth—The "Collector's sheets" being ready to place in the hands of messengers for correction, were placed in portfolios, a sufficient number of sheets being placed in each portfolio for what was considered a fair day's work. The old enrolment was all written on white paper. To carry out the requirement of Government to enroll all not enrolled, there were also placed in the Collector's portfolios blue sheets, on which were to be entered all persons found whose names did not appear upon the old enrolment.

Seventh—Thus prepared, these portfolios were placed in the hands of "Collectors," each Collector being charged with the number of sheets given him, and his portfolio having conspicuously placed upon its cover the following printed instructions:

NEW YORK COUNTY ENROLMENT BUREAU.

TO COLLECTORS.

Collectors will report at headquarters of Bureau each day, at five o'clock P. M.

They will receive from the Superintendent of Wards the sheets which may be ready.

They will proceed, with the sheets received, to visit each house which appears upon the rolls, and make diligent inquiry as to the following facts, viz.:

I. Whether the person whose name is recorded resides at the place indicated; and if not, whether he ever did live there; and if he has removed, where he has removed to?

II. If the person does not reside, but only does business at the place indicated, that fact will be entered, and the real place of residence obtained, if possible. If no trace of the person can be found, the Collector will, in all cases, make affidavit of that fact at headquarters.

III. If the person does reside as indicated in the roll, the Collector will diligently endeavor to ascertain whether he is exempt from draft for either of the following causes, viz.:

1. Over forty-five years of age.

2. Under twenty years of age.

3. Alienage; (born in a foreign country, and not naturalized, nor declared his intentions, nor ever voted.)

4. Having furnished a substitute in anticipation of the draft.

5. Having been drafted and furnished a substitute.

6. Having been drafted and paid commutation.

7. Having been drafted and received a certificate of permanent physical disability.

8. Being permanently physically disqualified.

9. Having served two years in the Army or Navy during the present war, and been honorably discharged.

IV. Wherever any of the above exemptions shall appear, or any discrepancy shall be found between the Provost-Marshal's enrolment and the facts, that discrepancy shall be noted in the margin of the blank, under the heading "remarks," and no change shall, under any circumstances, be made of the body of the blank.

V. Collectors will inform all persons upon whom they call that the object of this correction of enrolment is to reduce the quota under any future draft, and that it is to the interest of all citizens to give true answers to all inquiries.

VI. Whenever any discrepancy between the facts and the enrolment shall appear, the Collector will advise the person from whom the information is received that it is important to the interest of the enrolled man, and to the interest of every other citizen, that they should at once repair to the Provost-Marshal's office in the District, and make affidavit to the fact, and have his name stricken off the draft roll.

VII. In addition to the business of correcting the present enrolment list, Collectors will be charged with the duty of adding to the enrolment the names of any who may not be enrolled. For this purpose, Collectors will be furnished with special blanks, designed to contain the residence, name, age, color, trade, social condition, and place of birth of every person not enrolled. To obtain these particulars, Collectors will pursue the following directions:

1. At each house visited they will first proceed to correct the rolls which have been furnished them, in accordance with instructions above.

2. Inquiries will be made as to all persons residing in the house, and the names of all those not enrolled will be placed upon the blank sheets.

3. Whenever a person is found not to be enrolled, all the questions relative to exemption will be asked, and the answers noted under the head of "remarks," the same as in the original rolls.

4. If the person is claimed to be exempt for any cause, he will be requested to appear before the Provost-Marshal of the District, that his name may be taken from the new roll.

Collectors will visit all houses, new or old, in which by their old rolls there does not appear to be any one liable, and ascertain whether there be any person living there then. In case there should be, they will be enrolled on the new sheets, with claim to exemption, if there be any.

Whenever any person, either on the old or new rolls, claims to have any certificate of exemption, the name will be enrolled, and the claim to having such certificate will also be noted under the head of "remarks."

In no case will any Collector exercise any discretion as to leaving a man's name off the roll for any reason, no matter how old, or what the circumstances of the claim.

Their duty will be to get the facts, and note all claims to be left off under the head of "remarks." Other means will be taken to determine the exemption. But no person will be enrolled except, from circumstances, the Collector believes him to be an actual resident of the house.

As all Collectors will be sworn officers of the Government, and every violation of the trust reposed in them will be visited with the severest penalties, faithfulness in the discharge of their duty cannot be too strongly impressed upon them.

Collectors will be particular in cases of alleged exemption for permanent physical disability, to state the alleged cause of such physical disability. As for instance, "physical disability, lost right eye;" "physical disability, varicose veins;" "physical disability, lame in right foot," &c., &c.

Collectors will use nothing but red ink, and will sign every sheet returned; the white sheets on the back, the blue sheets on the face at the bottom.

A strict account will be kept with each Collector of all sheets delivered and returned.

Each day's work will be turned in at headquarters at 5 P. M., when additional blanks will be distributed.

The roll of Collectors will be called each day at 5 o'clock, and any one absent without permission will be deducted.

The pay of all Collectors will be three dollars ($3) per diem.

By order of

ORISON BLUNT,

Chairman N. Y. Co. Com. on Vol.

CORNELIUS CORSON,

Chief of Enrolment Bureau.

Subsequently, the following additional notice was pasted in the portfolios of Collectors:

SPECIAL NOTICE TO COLLECTORS

In regard to the New Enrolment.

All names enrolled on the blue sheets, must be written in full. Where the name or age, or a portion of a name, or any information necessary to complete the enrolment, is refused, Collectors, by applying to the nearest Police Station, and showing their warrant as Collector, can obtain all the assistance necessary to compel the parties refusing, to answer, or to cause their arrest. This does not apply to transient hotel boarders

All persons must be enrolled at their residence, and not at their place of business, unless their residence and place of business should be the same.

The white sheets must be indorsed on the back, and the blue sheets must be signed on the face and dated, and also the heading filled up, and no dots used, but everything written in full.

The word "correct," must not be written on the white sheets, unless everything on the line is CORRECT.

Where the name is spelled wrong, write "No trace," and enroll the name correctly on blue sheet.

Collectors, by making themselves more familiar with the printed rules in the front of their books, will save themselves much trouble.

Any deviations from this order will be deemed sufficient cause for removal.

By order of

ORISON BLUNT,
Chairman N. Y. Co. Com. on Vol.

CORNELIUS CORSON,
Chief of Enrolment Bureau.

Eighth—The Collector having performed his duty, returned his book with his work therein, was credited for the same, and received another with additional work, which had been prepared for him in his absence.

Ninth—The work returned was all carefully examined for apparent errors. Although every Collector was a sworn officer of the Government, it was deemed necessary to secure by vigilant examination that the work assigned had been faithfully performed. Whenever any error appeared, the sheet was placed in the Collector's book for the next day, with a memorandum of the error for correction.

Tenth—From the sheets now returned—arranged by streets and numbers—it became necessary to transfer the remarks of the Collectors to the original and duplicate sheets, alphabetically arranged. To effect this, all the remarks were first copied from the Collectors' sheets on the small slips used in reducing the original enrolment to streets and numbers. These slips were then rearranged alphabetically, and from them the remarks were copied on to the original and duplicate sheets as alphabetically arranged, and thus the original sheets became ready for the affidavits in support of the remarks of the Collectors, with which the original sheets were to be returned to the Provost-Marshals.

Eleventh—From the Collectors' sheets were then prepared the necessary affidavits in support of the remarks made by the Collectors. These affidavits were of several kinds, the character and uses of which will be readily perceived by the following copies and explanations:

These affidavits all had printed numbers, each class being numbered separately, and every man was charged with the number furnished him, so that none could be taken away or destroyed without the knowledge of the person in charge.

These affidavits having been all filled out in accordance with the Collector's remarks, were assorted—those for the Collectors and Post Office carriers being retained in the office, the persons having to swear to then being notified to do so at the office. Those affidavits requiring the signatures of parties claiming exemption, were put in portfolios and placed in the hands of a Commissioner or Notary, to obtain the affidavits of such persons. These affidavits were prepared, examined, and distributed in the same way and with the same care that the Collector's sheets had been, and every effort was made to secure faithfulness in the discharge of this duty, the following instructions being pasted conspicuously in each portfolio:

NEW YORK COUNTY ENROLMENT BUREAU.

INSTRUCTIONS TO NOTARIES AND COMMISSIONERS.

Notaries and Commissioners will report each morning at 9 o'clock. They will then receive the affidavits which have been prepared for them.

It will be their duty to make diligent search for each individual to whom the blanks in their hands relate. If the person cannot be found at his residence, it will be their duty to follow him to his place of business, or wherever else it is likely that the person may be found.

Having found the individual, they will inform him of the object of taking these affidavits, and obtain from him an affidavit, if possible.

In case any person should refuse to make an affidavit, he will be informed that such refusal will be taken as prima facie evidence that he is liable to be drafted, and that if he should be drafted, it may then be too late for him to claim exemption.

The affidavits will be returned the morning after they shall have been received.

In all cases where the parties refuse to make affidavits, the fact will be indorsed across the face of the affidavit, together with the alleged cause for such refusal.

If it is impossible to find any person the first day, the affidavit will be retained for further search.

No charge will be made to any person, under any circumstances, for these affidavits.

The responsibility and delicacy of this duty cannot be too strongly impressed upon the minds of Notaries and Commissioners.

The pay of Notaries and Commissioners will be dollars per day.

By order of

ORISON BLUNT,
Chairman N. Y. Co. Com. on Vol.

CORNELIUS CORSON,
Chief of Bureau of Enrolment.

Every affidavit was duly charged when taken out, and credited when returned.

13. The affidavits which, on examination, were found correct, were then attached to the "original" sheets on which the name to which each affidavit related appeared.

On the "duplicate" sheets were marked the number, and also the character of the affidavit attached to the "original." This ended the labor on the correction of the enrolment.

14. In the meantime the new enrolment was examined, and went through the same process, those found to be clearly liable being in the end copied on clean sheets, alphabetically arranged, these sheets, with the old enrolment, its affidavits, &c., completing the work, which was then ready to be turned over to the Provost-Marshal of the District in which the Ward might be.

Exhibit G.

APPEAL TO CITIZENS TO AID IN THE WORK OF CORRECTING THE ENROLMENT.

THE COMING DRAFT.

Important Notice to all who are Enrolled as Liable to Draft.

The New York County Committee on Volunteering have reason to believe that a further call is likely soon to be made by the President for men.

Hitherto, great complaint has been made that the quotas demanded of the County of New York have been excessive.

As all quotas are based upon the enrolment, it is evident that no relief can be expected, except by a reduction of the enrolment to its proper standard.

Although appeals have hitherto been made to citizens to correct the enrolment, there has been little or no disposition shown by the public to discharge its duty in this particular.

It is evident that this duty must be performed by the public authorities, or it will not be performed at all.

By consent of the War Department, and the advice of the Governor, the New York County Committee on Volunteering has determined to undertake the herculean labor of correcting the enrolment of the County.

No means will be spared to make this correction thorough and satisfactory, both to the people and the Government.

Our only object is to correct the enrolment, and place it at a proper standard, and every citizen owes it alike to himself and his neighbor to assist in this work.

In addition to other means which will be brought into requisition for the accomplishment of this object, a complete copy of the existing enrolment of each Ward or Election District will be printed, and furnished to every enrolled citizen of the Ward or Election District.

This will prevent the excuse which so many who are exempt have made, that they did not know they were enrolled, and hence did not attend to having their names taken from the roll.

It will also afford the opportunity for every man enrolled to see whether or not his neighbor is enrolled and enable him to secure that those liable and not enrolled shall be put down.

Every person enrolled is requested to aid in the gigantic labor which we have undertaken, by complying with the following conditions:

I. Whenever a name appears of any person who is not enrolled but liable, notice of the fact should be given to the Provost-Marshal of the District, by any person who who may be cognizant of the fact, in order that the same may be recorded.

II. Whenever a name appears of any person who has removed, notice of the fact should be given at the Provost-Marshal's office, that the name may be stricken from the roll of that District, and recorded where it properly belongs.

III. Whenever a name appears which is known to be fictitious, or any one is aware that the person indicated is not a resident as described, notice should be given at the Provost-Marshal's office, that the name may be striken from the roll.

IV. Whenever cause of exemption exists for any reason, notice should be given to the Provost-Marshal of the district by the exempt person himself, that the name may be striken from the roll.

The following are the recognized causes of exemption:

1. Over forty-five (45) years of age.

2. Under twenty (20) years of age.

3. Being an alien, and never having voted.

4. Having furnished a substitute in anticipation of the draft.

5. Having been drafted and furnished a substitute.

6. Having been drafted and paid commutation.

7. Having been drafted and received a certificate of permanent physical disability.

8. Being permanently physically disqualified.

9. Having served two years in the army or navy during the present war, and been honorably discharged.

In addition to this, so far as possible, every enrolled man will be waited upon personally by authorized agents deputed to ascertain the liability of all enrolled men, to have those improperly enrolled taken off, and to add those not on, but who should be enrolled.

As this is an effort to correct and not to increase the enrolment, it is to the interest of every person to give correct and true answers to any and all questions which may be put to them; and any persons declining to answer, or giving false answers, render themselves liable to arrest and imprisonment.

This is probably the last attempt which will be made to secure a correct enrolment of the County of New York. To be successful, the co-operation of every resident of this City and County is absolutely required.

The Government officials have evinced a disposition to afford us every facility to attain the object in view. If, therefore, through the interposition and apathy of the public, who are most concerned, this effort to correct the enrolment prove abortive, and further excessive quotas are demanded of us, because of the incorrectness of the enrolment, the people of this City and County will be themselves responsible, and they will have none but themselves to blame.

LETTER OF ORISON BLUNT TO PROVOST-MARSHAL GENERAL FRY, EXPLAINING THE PROGRESS OF THE WORK ON THE CORRECTION OF THE ENROLMENT.

HEADQUARTERS COUNTY COM. ON VOLUNTEERING,
CITY HALL PARK, BROADWAY,
New York, January 11, 1865.

Brigadier-General J. B. FRY,
Provost-Marshal General:

SIR—

On the 24th ult. I was waited upon by Brigadier-General Hays, A. A. P. M. General, who laid before me a letter from yourself to him, dated November 15, relating to Circular No. 39, in reference to the correction of the enrolment, such letter concluding as follows:

"Confer with the State and local authorities and present the foregoing views to them, and secure if possible prompt and practical assistance from them in perfecting the enrolment lists. The subject should receive the attention of town, precinct and ward meetings, and committees."

After my interview with General Hays, I prepared and transmitted to him, the same day, a letter expressing the gratification of the Committee on Volunteering at the disposition evinced by the Government to have the enrolment of the City of New York corrected and placed upon a proper basis. Anxious to assist the Government to the utmost extent in securing a correct enrolment of this County, we at once proposed to General Hays to undertake, at the exclusive expense of the County, the work of revising the enrolment. A plan for this revision was also submitted.

This plan General Hays, we understood, personally submitted to the Department at Washington, and that it received their sanction, with the exception that it was desired by the Department that in addition to the revision of the old enrolment, that we should undertake to newly enroll all persons who might be liable but who might not be enrolled. The propriety of this suggestion was so apparent that it was at once acceded to by us, and the work of revising the old enrolment and newly enrolling those who might not be enrolled, was immediately commenced by us. The work of the new enrolment was more willingly undertaken by us, since we had no desire to make any change in the enrolment, except to make it as perfect as possible. And to secure that this department of the labor should be as thoroughly performed as any, the following orders were issued on the subject to each of the enrolling officers, and to carry out which every enrolling officer is sworn by General Hays:

"In addition to the business of correcting the present enrolment list, Collectors will be charged with the duty of adding to the enrolment the names of any who may not be enrolled. For this purpose, Collectors will be furnished with special blanks, designed to contain the residence, name, age, color, trade, social condition, and place of birth of every person not enrolled. To obtain these particulars, Collectors will pursue the following directions:

"1. At each house visited they will first proceed to correct the rolls which have been furnished them in accordance with instructions above.

"2. Inquiries will be made as to all persons residing in the house, and the names of all those not enrolled will be placed upon the blank sheets.

"3. Whenever a person is found not to be enrolled, all the questions relative to exemption will be asked, and the answers noted under the head of "remarks," the same as in the original rolls.

"4. If the person is claimed to be exempt for any cause, he will be requested to appear before the Provost-Marshal of the District, that his name may be taken from the new roll.

"Collectors will visit all houses, new or old, in which by their old rolls there does not appear to be any one liable, and ascertain whether there be any person living there then. In case there should be, they will be enrolled on the new sheets, with claim to exemption, if there be any.

"Whenever any person, either on the old or new rolls, claims to have any certificate of exemption, the name will be enrolled, and the claim to having such certificate will also be noted under the head of "remarks."

"In no case will any Collector exercise any discretion as to leaving a man's name off the roll for any reason, no matter how old, or what the circumstances of the claim."

I believe that our instructions are being fully carried out.

The work on the new enrolment is approaching completion, and will soon be submitted to the Provost-Marshals for their action; and in order that your department may understand the exact practical result of the system adopted by us, I have the honor to inclose the result of the labors of several of our enrolling officers, being work returned to us to-day.

I would remark that the white sheets represent a true copy of the old enrolment; that the red marks on the white sheets show the results of the inquiries of the enrolling officers; and that the blue sheets show the new enrolment. I have attached to each sheet an explanation which will present the matter more clearly to you.

Believing that, on a careful examination, the system adopted by us will meet your approbation,

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

Chairman N. Y. Co. Com. on Vol.

REMARKS ON THE FOREGOING.—Of the nine men enrolled on this sheet, but three can now be found, though the sixth and seventh on the blue sheet are evidently intended by the fifth and sixth on the white sheet. Five men are added to the enrolment, making eight. In each of the three cases in which the men enrolled have been found, our officers have completed the description hitherto imperfect. The enrolment is reduced from nine to eight.

REMARKS ON THE FOREGOING.—This is a specimen of a good portion of the city, but one family living in a house as a rule. In this street, from No. 5 to No. 19, there are ten men enrolled on the lists which we get from the Provost-Marshals. Our enrolling officers have found six of these men, and, in three cases, have completed the enrolment hitherto defective. Of four they discover no trace. They have added fifteen names, four liable to draft. Three names are evidently misspelled on the white sheets, two of them so badly as to be unrecognizable. The number enrolled remains unchanged.
